May Have Heavy Industry Doubles Big Soviet Goal

for Order of Aircraft Consumer Goods Must Come Second, Khrushchev Says

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev told the Soviet people today his planners will continue to put primary emphasis on heavy industry and presumably armaments rather than consumer goods.

But he also said fresh efforts will be made to put more food and other consumer goods in the shops.

Addressing a special meeting of the Communist party Central Committee, he asserted that both segments of the economy—heavy industry (which supplies the armament industry) and consumer goods production—must be stepped up through more effective work by local Communist party officials.

The premier called for "radical measures" to shake up the party's organization and work patterns. He said modern times demand this.

"Old organizational forms," he declared, "are, to a degree, becoming a drag on the party's guidance of production."

5 Survivors Tell About Rescue After They Abandon Burning Ship

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five survivors of the Greek freighter Captain George unfolded a touching and ironical story today of how they risked great odds in abandoning the burning ship while fellow crewmen took a safer lifeboat but were lost in the stormy Atlantic Ocean.

Of the 25-man crew, seven were rescued. The bodies of three others have been recovered and 15 are still missing.

All From Greece

The five men, all from the Aegean area of Greece, arrived here late Sunday night aboard the Liberian-flag tanker, the Trinity Navigator. The Trinity picked them up from the Atlantic more than 200 miles northeast of Bermuda after they abandoned the Captain George in a storm Thursday.

The five men were Antonius Arapis, 47, Costas Veletzas, 20, Themis Patatzis, 36, George Anthis, 24, and Stelios Paschalidis, 55.

Veletzas and Paschalidis, speaking through an interpreter, explained that there was one lifeboat on the right side of the Captain George and another on the left side. The right side was the windward side facing into heavy gales.

When the master ordered the crew to abandon ship after the men stayed with it 18 hours trying to extinguish the fire and jettisoning the cargo of ammunition from the holds, the five were unable to get to the left-side lifeboat because of a heavy screen of sulphur fumes.

They decided to go over the

U. N. Move for New Talks on Disarming Certain of Approval

Progress Report Requested Before Middle of Next April

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A resolution calling for new disarmament negotiations and a progress report by mid-April was expected to win overwhelming approval in the United Nations today.

Another resolution recommending that nuclear weapons be barred from Latin America faced an uncertain future because of Cuban demands that it apply to U.S. bases in the Caribbean.

The General Assembly's 110-nation main political committee scheduled morning and afternoon meetings in an effort to reach a vote today on the two proposals.

The first resolution, sponsored by 31 countries, call on the 18-nation disarmament committee to resume its negotiations in Geneva "expeditiously and in a spirit of constructive compromise, until agreement has been reached" on general and complete disarmament with effective controls.

Group Meets Nov. 26

The proposal asks the disarmament committee to report to the assembly on its progress not later than the second week of April. The committee, which recessed Sept. 8 to allow for the U.N. debate, is scheduled to meet again Nov. 26.

The second resolution recommends that the countries of Latin America agree to dispose of any nuclear weapons or nuclear delivery vehicles which may be on their territory and not to manufacture, receive, store or test such devices. It calls for verification procedures.

Bolivia, Brazil, Chile and Ecuador, sponsoring the proposal, were expected to confer on their future course in view of the Cuban-U.S. disagreement. There was speculation that they might withhold the resolution from a vote for the time being.

Cuban Proposal

Cuban chief delegate Carlos M. Lechuga told the committee Friday the idea of making Latin America a denuclearized zone was "very acceptable to Cuba."

But he said Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone — both U.S. military strongholds — should be included and all big-power military bases in Latin America should be done away with, especially the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

His successor will be named by Gov. Edwin L. Bechem, New Mexico's outgoing Republican chief executive. Mechem, who leaves office Jan. 1, is considered a prime prospect for the Senate term which runs until the general election in 1964.

If the post goes to Mechem or a fellow Republican, he will be the first GOP senator from New Mexico in a generation. The lineup of the new Senate had been 68 Democrats and 32 Republicans.

Mechem said at Albuquerque that the death of Chavez was a tragedy and that he would not discuss the possibility of a successor for some time.

Chavez entered the hospital Nov. 7, the day after the general election. He had a virus infection and a high fever he is believed to have contracted while campaigning in New Mexico for Jack Campbell, who defeated Mechem in the governorship race.

Doctors said the illness, coming after 18 months of treatment for cancer of the neck, led to the heart attack. Chavez had planned to leave the hospital Sunday to recuperate at home.

Chavez was chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee and a member of the Appropriations Committee.

The body of Chavez will be flown today to Santa Fe, where it will lie in state in the New Mexico Senate chamber. It will be taken to Albuquerque Tuesday evening for services Wednesday morning at the Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic church.

Referee Suggests 2-Year Revocation for Convicted Lawyer

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A state supreme court referee today recommended that the court revoke for two years the lawyer's license of Alan J. Cain of Appleton, now serving a one-year term in a federal prison for evasion of federal income taxes.

The recommendation came from retired county judge E. J. Morrison of Portage, who was named by the court to hear the case when the state board of bar commissioners asked for disciplinary action against Cain as a lawyer after he was convicted and sentenced in Milwaukee federal district court. The bar commissioners have moved for the acceptance of the referee's report. The court probably will consider the matter formally in January, a spokesman said today.

Morrison suggested that after the two-year suspension, Cain could have his rights as a lawyer restored.

Probably Paroled Soon

"It is my belief that in two years a complete reformation will be accomplished and that he can thereafter resume his services with honor to the profession," the referee said, adding that he has been informed that Cain's conduct in the Sandstone Penitentiary in

MEDFORD (AP) — A Medford man and a Withee girl were found dead by the girl's parents early today in a car parked on a town road near Highway 64 west of Medford.

Taylor County Deputy Coroner Lester Hirt said that Donald Daszow, 27, and 21-year-old Kathleen Zaleski had been dead about three hours when they were found by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zaleski about 5:30 a.m. The parents said they had started to search when they found the car.

Hirt termed the deaths accidental, due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Retreating Indians Cut Off After Abandoning Posts, Defense Military Declares

BY HENRY S. BRADSHAW

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru announced the fall to the Chinese Communists of Bomdila, 25 miles from the plains of Assam.

His announcement followed by only a matter of hours news from the Defense Ministry that Indian defense positions on the Se Pass had been overrun and that fighting had moved 32 air miles to the southeast, into the outskirts of Bomdila, in fighting on the western end of the long border front.

The Indian army had planned to place its next defense line behind Se Pass at Bomdila, but the surprise Chinese sweep around the northeast end of the defenses brought the attackers Sunday night to Bomdila.

The spokesman said Bomdila is now threatened.

Announce Loss of Pass

Prime Minister Nehru had announced earlier the fall of the vital Himalayan Se Pass to a prong of a massive Red Chinese offensive probing toward the densely populated plains of Assam.

The Chinese outflanked Indian troops on 13,750-foot-high Se Pass, forcing them to withdraw, Nehru told Parliament.

The loss of the pass came as the Chinese Communists, attacking in waves, pressed their renewed offensive at both ends of the 1,500-mile frontier stretching from Burma to Kashmir.

At the eastern end of the battle line, the Chinese posed a separate threat to the Assam plains in an advance of 12 miles from the key defense post of Walong, which they captured Friday. Walong lies some 300 miles east of Se Pass.

Independence Periled

In Ladakh, at the northwest end of the disputed border, the Chinese have taken an outpost guardedly today in a vital Indian airfield at Chushul and fighting is continuing in the area, Nehru said.

His announcement of the new reverses came after a speech Sunday night in which he said the Chinese offensive is threatening Indian independence. He said other countries are now beginning to realize that this is not a border dispute but "naked, crude and shameless aggression."

A Peking broadcast quoted Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai as saying U.S. arms aid to India will enlarge the conflict.

"to the detriment of the Chinese and Indian people and of the Afro-Asian peoples." About $5 million worth of badly needed infantry weapons have been flown to India by the United States.

Gaullist Union Wins 1st Round At French Polls

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle today emerged from the first round of the National Assembly elections with a new and resounding victory over France's old line political parties.

Oust Communists As Nation's Biggest Political Party

The Gaullist Union for a New Republic (UNR), with a one-plank platform of unswerving loyalty to De Gaulle, displaced the Communists as France's strongest political party.

The UNR won 50 of the 104 seats decided Sunday and led 134 of the 369 districts of metropolitan France where runoffs will be held next Sunday. The party's share of the popular vote nearly doubled, from 17.5 per cent in 1958 to 31.9 per cent.

Stay in Control

Although Interior Minister Roger Frey predicted the UNR would wind up with a majority in the 401-member assembly this appeared unlikely. Even if it won all the runoffs in the races in which its candidates led, it would still be about 60 short of a majority. But the Gaullists were expected to draw enough support from segments of the Popular Re-

Question Right to Hold Youths In Reformatory Without Trial

Manitowoc Attorney Argues Boys' Constitutional Privileges Violated

BY JERRY VAN RYZIN
Post-Crescent News Service

Two teenage Manitowoc boys, who are juvenile delinquents but not convicted criminals, are serving time behind the walls of the Wisconsin State Reformatory here.

And there are 100 more like them confined at the over-crowded penal institution. The boys, all under 21 years old and some of them as young as 15, have never had a public trial, been convicted of a crime or been sentenced by any judge in any court of Wisconsin.

The two Manitowoc boys are Gary Schmitt, 17, son of Earl Schmitt, 627 N. 10th St., and Robert Hoffman, 18, son of Mrs. Clara Hoffman, 1224 S. 12th St. Both boys have lengthy records of getting into trouble with the law. But Manitowoc County Juvenile Court Judge Leon H. Jones did not find their records bad enough to waive juvenile jurisdiction in their cases and try them as adults.

The boys were never sentenced to Reformatory terms. They were merely adjudged as delinquents at closed door Juvenile Court hearings and placed in the legal custody of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Walked Away From Camp
The reason for the transfer? The two boys walked away from the youth camp.

Legal moves to get the two Manitowoc boys transferred out of the Reformatory again are being heard before Judge Donald W. Gleason in Circuit Court Branch I here on a petition for writs of habeas corpus against Michael A. Skaff, Reformatory superintendent.

The cases involve some basic questions of the individual rights of the young prisoners and the authority of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Are the boys being falsely imprisoned at the Reformatory, one of the state's three penal institutions together with Waupun State Prison and the Women's Prison at Taycheedah, without due process of law?

Children's Code Provision
Aside from the basic constitutional questions of the right to a trial and imprisonment only on conviction and sentencing, how is the state's relatively new Children's Code to be interpreted? The code, which was adopted four years ago, provides the State Department of Public Welfare can use "institutions, facilities and services including without limitation forestry or conservation camps, for the training and treatment of children 12 years of age or older who have been adjudged delinquent."

The law adds, "The department may use other facilities and services under its jurisdiction." Does this include the Reformatory, and even Waupun and Taycheedah? And, if so, the constitutional question of individual civil rights remains.

Oral Arguments Heard
Representing the two boys in the case is Atty. Lawrence Salutz, Manitowoc. Representing the state is Asst. Atty. Gen. William Platz. Preliminary oral arguments were heard before Judge Gleason recently. He asked both attorneys to file written briefs in the case and turned down a motion by Salutz requesting that the court order the boys released from the Reformatory and returned to the forestry camp.

The oldest of the boys, Robert, originally was found delinquent in Manitowoc Juvenile Court two years ago on Nov. 30, 1960, for truancy from school when he was 16 years old. He had been ordered to enroll at Manitowoc Vocational School on Sept. 6 but didn't until two weeks later on Sept. 21. He then repeatedly missed classes and was expelled on Oct. 28, 1960.

Robert's case was brought into Juvenile Court on petition of Joe Jarosk Jr., Manitowoc truancy officer. At the closed door hearing Detective Lt. Francis Lallensack of the Manitowoc Police Dept. related several of Robert's other brushes with the law.

The other boy, Gary, was adjudged delinquent by Judge Jones in Juvenile Court a year ago on Oct. 18, 1961, for violating probation. He was apprehended in a car in Sheridan, Wis., with a 20-year-old married man and with a 16-year-old girl.

Gary, who was 16 at the time, was brought into Juvenile Court on petition of Robert Jameson, probation officer for the Manitowoc County Welfare Dept.

After being adjudged delinquent, both boys were sent to the Wisconsin School for Boys Diagnostic Center at Wales in Waukesha County. Both were later transferred to the forestry camp in Clark County in west central Wisconsin.

Transfer Difficult Cases
According to testimony by Sanger B. Powers, director of the department's Division of Corrections for the past seven years and former superintendent at the Reformatory for five years, only "more difficult" juvenile delinquents are ever transferred to the Reformatory. These include escapees who cannot be confined at the "open" boys schools and camps.

Most of the juvenile transfers to the Reformatory are boys 18 and over. Very few under 16 are confined there, Powers related. Especially for the older boys, the Reformatory offers better vocational training and more varied work assignments, he said.

On cross examination, Powers admitted there are no separate juvenile detention facilities at the Reformatory. The juveniles mix with other inmates and are treated as anyone else.

Distinction in Records
A distinction, Powers emphasized, is preserved in the records. Their status as delinquents is maintained and reports of their confinement at the Reformatory are not filed with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, as is the case with convicted inmates. In arguments before Judge

Minnesota has been exemplary and that he will probably be paroled soon.

Cain was convicted for willful evasion of taxes for four years starting in 1952 and understating his taxable income by $19,946.

The referee explained that he did not urge greater punishment for the professional breach because Cain had always shown good conduct in his relations with the court and with clients, because he had given full cooperation to the federal tax examiners and because he is a good prospect for rehabilitation.

Action as Deterrent
But he said also that some action is required as a deterrent to potential tax evaders and because the supreme court has often held that a good moral character is required for admission to the bar and for the continued practice of law.

Cain is 56 years of age Mrs. Cain was convicted in the same case and is now serving a term in a women's prison.

Morrison recommended that the suspension take effect with the date of the court's decision in the case.

Refugee Escapes but Woman Is Captured

BERLIN (AP)—An East German refugee escaped under gunfire to West Berlin today but his woman companion was wounded and captured.

West Berlin police said Red guards fired about 30 shots at the pair as they scrambled through wire fences dividing the city.

Gleason, Salutz repeated his contention that the basic rights of the two boys are being violated. They cannot be imprisoned only on a Juvenile Court commitment and without a public trial, conviction for a crime and sentencing, all involving their constitutional right of due process of the law, he maintained.

The assistant attorney general argued that the Reformatory is not only a penal institution, but also, as its name implies, "a place of reformation not punishment."

Judge Gleason now is studying a written brief submitted by Salutz. And Platz has until the end of this week to submit a reply. Further oral argument will probably be scheduled later.

employees — mostly domestic civil service employees — plod their way out of the base into Cuba, entering that Republic under a sign which reads, "Territorio Libre de America" — "free territory of America" (Latin, unlike casual Americans, know "America" to be North, South and Central America).

Across the little white line they go, and down a long narrow fenced-in runway which is locally called "the chute." Castroite Cubans have a word for them—"Gusanos"—which means "worms"; they work and take wages from the United States.

But among those who move daily over the thin white line are the "Espia," too, and they are pro-Castro spies who undoubtedly report what they hear and what they see. Their identity is not known.

Questioned in two interviews about possible saboteurs, Rear Admiral Edward J. O'Donnell, commanding officer of the naval base here, said this:

"There is surely a risk. But we have been good employers. We have given them industrial relations which are unusual in Cuba. But there has been no sabotage, no evidence of attempts at sabotage, and we have no knowledge that any military information has been provided to anyone off this base."

Adm. O'Donnell pointed out that when President Kennedy's tough speech was made a month ago, "the absenteeism of the Cuban employees here stayed within normal limits."

Though many—perhaps most—of the Cuban workers here are loyal to the U. S. which employs them, it must be recognized, said O'Donnell, that they are subject to great pressure from the outside. "They are in a delicate position," he said.

He did not believe that any significant military information was available to the Espia, he added.

U. S. Dollars
Over the thin white line goes also a total of $6.6 million annually in American dollars.

The annual rent for the Guantanamo Bay Naval Base is $3,700 per year, according to the U. S.-Cuba treaty of 1932. But the monthly water bill at the base has been $168,000 annually, all of which goes into the Castro coffers.

The volatile, be-whiskered dictator also mulcts the base-employed Cuban of significant amounts of their income by the technique of exchanging the American dollar for the Cuban peso at a devalued rate of exchange which permits him to keep an estimated 90 per cent of their wages. A bank, or counting house, at the far end of "the chute" is manned by Castro accountants who make the inequitable peso-for-dollar exchange on the spot.

Air Castro
If U. S. funds are helping Castro to mount offenses along the thin wire fence, how significant are these forces?

U. S. Marine General William R. Collins, Commander of ground forces at Guantanamo Bay, estimated today that Castro could muster "12,000 to 15,000 men from the immediate area, and could probably muster additional reserves from some distance away. (Cuba is about 750 miles long, 90 miles wide.)"

Does military intelligence know of any activity on the Castro side of the fence?

Said Collins: "They are building something over there and I assume when we find out what it is we aren't going to like it. Activity there is increasing in frequency; there is ample evidence of machinery working at night, and a new trail has recently been cut."

If Castro could tactically muster 12,000 to 15,000 members of his Citizen Militia for an onslaught at the Guantanamo Naval Base, could we defend ourselves adequately?

Said Gen. Collins: "We might find our hands full."

Rep. Laird on Foreign Policy

Congressman Melvin Laird, in his book A House Divided, writes well and sometimes eloquently of the problems that confront the United States at this critical period of our history. The book is a plea to abandon the "underdog" strategy which Laird feels has plagued our foreign policy since President Kennedy came to office. The book was published before the Cuban episode but much of its warnings to government officials and the public alike still holds valid. In fact it would almost appear that President Kennedy took some pages from the book when he finally faced up to the Soviet menace in this hemisphere.

Laird emphasizes that we must maintain—or gain — the initiative in dealing with the Communists. "Making it credible to the enemy that we will take the initiative," he writes, "and strike first if necessary, does not follow the pattern of a so-called preventive war; it does not mean constructing a subterranean plot to launch an attack against the Soviet Union whenever such attack is practical. What it means is serving credible notice, and meaning it, that we reserve to ourselves the initiative to strike first when the Soviet peril point rises beyond its tolerable limit. The tolerable limit would not, of course, be too tightly defined lest the Russians use it—as they have used our many 'defense perimeter' statements — merely as a guide as to how far they may goad us with impunity. Credible announcement of first strike initiative is the sole way to effective disarmament discussions with the Soviet Union. So long as the leaders of the Communist Empire are assured that we will never take the initiative, but will always remain on the defensive, there is no conceivable reason for them to agree to serious arms control or the inspection systems upon which such controls must be based, if they are to be effective."

Laird argues that we are not behind in nuclear power as we had been led to believe and that therefore this is the time to assert authority. "We must accept the moral responsibility to use our power constructively to prevent Communism from destroying the heritage of world civilization. In terms of military strategy, this means closing the strategy gap by a willingness to take the initiative in all areas. . . . Above all, while we have the power, we must aim at confronting the enemy directly. We can win every such confrontation."

The Cuban episode lends credence to this theme although we presume that many administration advisors would argue that confronting Russia in the Caribbean is far different from confronting it over the Berlin Wall. However, our build-up in Vietnam, while still inadequate, has not been challenged by the Soviet Union.

The basic problem, Laird says, is the attitude of the United States government and the American people. "The greatest threat to America is the lax thinking which sees all truths as relative and hence affords no reason for sacrifice in the cause of freedom. It is this attitude which has placed us on the defensive in the cold war. Uncommitted nations do not know where we stand, or for what we will fight. Humanity cannot reasonably look for leadership from any nation or civilization that is uncertain of its values, uncertain even that there are values more important than physical survival."

Congressman Laird has written a sound and reasoned criticism of the Administration's foreign policy. More importantly, he reveals a solid faith in the principles which built, developed and maintained this nation and a belief that they are worth defining and defending.

Diabetes—Sneaky Disease

The Post-Crescent's medical columnist, Dr. Joseph Molnef, calls diabetes the "sneaky" disease because many people suffer from it but do not realize it.

It is estimated that over 3,000,000 people in the United States have the disease but only half of them know it and are being properly treated for it. Over 5,000,000 others living today are potential diabetics. That is, they will develop the disease sometime during their lives.

The week just past was dedicated nationally to discover those who have diabetes and begin treatment. Most diabetics live normal lives with proper treatment but the disease can be fatal without it.

The usual symptoms are increase in thirst, constant hunger, frequent urination, loss of weight, intense itching, easy firing, pain in the fingers and toes, and slow healing of cuts and bruises.

People who are related to diabetics, are overweight or past 40 years of age are the most likely targets.

Diabetes can be controlled by diet, exercise and, if necessary, by insulin or by recently developed oral tablets. Neglect may lead to serious diseases of the heart, arteries, kidneys and eyes.

The diabetes detection drive is conducted by the American Diabetes Association to bring the condition to the attention of vulnerable persons.

Early detection and treatment is very important and the test for diabetes is simple and painless. Don't take a chance on diabetes, ask your doctor to check you now.

Answering Children's Questions

Parents in this age of space have for some time recognized that they were out of their depth when trying to discuss science and some other subjects with their school age children. It isn't only that spelling and reading are taught differently than twenty years ago and teachers frown upon home interference. But the lessons aren't the same. Math is looked at from a different angle, science is simply eons ahead of anything parents had learned unless they were physicists or engineers.

Now it seems the same problem is befalling, not just junior high school teachers, but the nursery school and kindergarten teachers as well.

Dr. Kenneth Wann, professor of education at Columbia Teachers' College, headed a research team which delved into the whys and wherefores of young children. "Today's children are bombarded with information," says the report. "The advancement of science, technology, the compactness of living, the ease of the entire world cry out to children to look, test and learn. . . . Too often we underestimate young children's readiness to investigate seriously and to understand their world. Perhaps it is because of undue emphasis upon children's egocentricity and reliance on fantasy. . . . The children we studied were actively striving to understand the people, events, and the natural phenomena that constitute their world."

The favorite word of almost every young child is "why?" and it is no easy task to explain the workings of Sigma 7, how we would breathe on the moon or why the leaves turn red and yellow in the fall. Kindergarten teachers are going to have to know the answers because it is assumed that most parents won't.

But the matter of fantasy should not be ignored either. Another study not long ago indicated that most men of genius had had a lot of opportunity to dream and to imagine. Even adjustment to the scientific realities of today should not attempt to ease out of childhood that testing of faculties of imagination as well as of hard facts.

It is not enough for leaders in any field merely to know the realities of their subject areas. They must have ideas on what to do with those realities and the flexibility of mind to see things from a variety of angles.

But in any case the matter of teaching isn't going to get any easier for the kindergarten teacher. Mere sand boxes, jungle gyms and coloring books are getting out of date.

CIA in Cuba Infiltrated By Reds, Evidence Shows

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

MIAMI — Central Intelligence Agency Director John McCone must reorganize his inside-Cuba operation, and fast, or we face one continued debacle after another.

The tragedy goes beyond the criticized failures of the CIA to get intelligence from inside Cuba that refugee groups here frequently supply faster and more accurately than the CIA supplies our own government. It extends to the basic security of the agency itself. Thus much of the Cuban underground is afraid to give its information to the CIA in Cuba because the agency has been penetrated on a wholesale scale.

Certainly that is made evident by experiences of Freedom Fighters here who have suffered the results. These are the brave, selfless men — dedicated and relentless — who have walked into the guns of Castro's agents and seen their landing units booby-trapped again and again the moment they stole ashore in Cuba. IN TWO MAIN CAMPS

Shaken, disillusioned, embittered and alarmed, some have turned back in time and tried again. But many more than we know were led straight into Castro dungeons on landing or are dead.

Through the underground, comrades here have traced these trapped victims to two main centers — the vast Guanahacabibes concentration camp on the Western tip of Cuba and Cienaga del Zapata "hell camp" in Matanzas Province.

"I missed the ambush only because I was the last to swim ashore," one of the returned young patriots told me, agony in his eyes, his hands working like pistons to hold back his frustration and fury. "The first few times CIA plans 'went wrong' we thought we were having very bad luck. I know better now," he said, "and so do the rest of us."

As a result, countless brave Cuban anti-Communist youth willing to risk their lives in retaliation against Red tyranny now make it a major objective to steer clear of the CIA. For, plainly, Castro's penetrations show it is too dangerous to risk this contact.

Sometimes it seems that our government does not want the Freedom Fighters to be active against Castro from the United States, although there are many contradictions in the CIA performance about this, as the Cubans, Russians and all informed Americans know. But that excuse is not pertinent. The infiltration is chiefly inside Cuba, and internal Cuba is the place where CIA performance is absolutely vital to our national security.

EVIDENCE IS SHATTERING No security breach is contained in that statement. Exactly the reverse. It is the lack of security which is exposed here. And the evidence is shattering. Most CIA agents inside Cuba are necessarily Cubans, just as they must be mostly Hungarians in Hungary, Poles in Poland, etc. Recently the CIA asked several highly reliable Cubans here to supply a list of anti-Castro Cubans for CIA recruitment in Havana. Cienfuegos, Manzanillo and along the Bahama Channel. In utmost secrecy, these patriots gave the CIA nearly a hundred names. I am advised that within 25 hours after this list reached Havana in CIA hands, and before the CIA there could utilize it, all but eight or 10 of the listed men and women were arrested by Castro's G2 — his secret police — and put under imprisonment and torture.

Major Pedro L. Diaz, Castro's personal airplane pilot who detected to America, summarized the feelings of the rest. "We are doubtful about supplying any more lists like that," he told me. And, believe me, I was talking to a very brave man who has a high price on his head and daily risks assassination.

Large-scale infiltration was first evidenced when Castro's troops and tanks, previously directed there, were waiting for the Freedom Fighters when they landed at the Bay of Pigs. As a sequel, more than 100,000 other Cubans were imprisoned and thousands shot — the friends and relatives of those who risked this fated trip. The purpose was wholesale terror to Castro's opponents. And since President Kennedy's missile crisis broadcast, beamed to Cuba in Spanish and so properly telling the enslaved people that America has not forgotten them, another 50,000 Cubans were arrested, bringing to over 150,000 the arrests after just these two occasions.

Such terror makes it doubly hard for the CIA. But every covert intelligence service's basic task is to protect itself against the double-agent's penetrations. Moreover, if it fails in this an intelligence network is more dangerous than valuable. The CIA faces that situation today in Cuba. The results are profoundly inadequate.

Sen. Wiley's Downfall Easier to Explain Than Other Election Results

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Perhaps the most effective act of Sen. Alexander Wiley in this year of his great trial and disappointment was the grace with which he accepted defeat in his public statement from Washington a few days ago.

But characteristic also was his gratuitous observation that there will remain some useful work for him to perform, in view of his rich understanding of the background of foreign relations problems. It may be difficult for the average constituent to imagine what useful work there can be in a national capitol for a lame duck of minority persuasion, but there will be thousands of his constituents, nevertheless, who will be glad that senator proposes to keep himself busy and won't sulk in his tent after his decisive rejection in defiance of 24 years of unparalleled election triumphs.

The explanation of Sen. Wiley's downfall is no doubt more obvious than of any other of the numerous and fascinating consequences of the electoral decisions this fall. Quite simply and transparently, the people of Wisconsin preferred an effective and hard-working young man, even with some reservations about his political orientation, to a venerable but garrulous old one whose boasts did not always square with the proofs of his service.

THE EXPLANATION

Sen. Wiley's friends have explained that the basic reason for his defeat was the fact that he was preoccupied with the heavy secrets of foreign relations which were his responsibility by virtue of his rank in the national Congress.

Under such circumstances, it was a hateful and disappointing thing for him to be expected to discuss on the campaign stump, even as every ordinary politician was expected to do, such trivia as medical care for the aged, taxes, appropriations, farm prices and the rest, according to this line of argument.

That might very well have been the way Wiley felt about it.

Obviously it explains better than any other diagnosis his insistence on telling the voters a score of times a day, without the transportation of a comma, that the only matters worth talking about were war and peace, the communist peril, and the economic integrity of the American nation.

But Sen. Wiley may wonder in retrospect whether it was a very good formula, and whether if he had performed in the usual way on the stump, even as did President Kennedy during the same critical weeks, for example, he might now be permitted to contribute his self-appraised vital services to the national government for another term. He may recall that others in high places in the national government didn't spurn normal campaigns, including Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Marshfield, whose recent book on foreign relations touches upon the gravity of his learning about war and peace as a member of the house appropriations committee in Washington.

HOW IT WAS

Wiley has always had the benefit of benevolent treatment, even from the professional critics within the Wisconsin political system. He was a jolly fellow, given to extravagant back-slapping, maybe, but easy to like, notwithstanding.

But his earlier career was deceptive, in that he had never faced really strong challengers. In earlier times he had the cumulative value of the ticket. In recent years the political alignment of the state has changed. It was no longer sufficient to campaign as a kind of living monument. Personal effort, personal acquaintance, hard campaign themes directed to voters who were listening critically as never before were called for. Wiley had lost touch, as shown by his painfully embarrassing mistaking of the identity of the best known political reporters of the state. He had never been an integral part of his party, had never built strong personal fences. In recent years he had become even more slack than when he was a younger man.

Faced with his first really tough campaign, weakened by age, Wiley hoped to reflect a man he never quite was. His failure was perhaps inevitable.

Antics With Semantics For Monday's Reading

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Antics with Semantics: I am judicious: you are indecisive; he is wishy-washy.

My candidate has "advisers" who "plan" his strategy; the opposing candidate has "hatchetmen" who "do his dirty work for him."

My attorney "knows all the angles"; yours is a "sharpie"; his is a "shyster." I was a trifle indiscreet; you were rather loose-tongued; he was an untrustworthy blabbermouth.

I am selective in my choice of friends; you are a bit of a toady; he is a shameless social climber.

I am patient; you are passive; he is paralyzed. When other people's children get into trouble, I blame their parents; when my own children commit transgressions, I blame it on "evil companions."

We had a disagreement; you had a blow-up; they had a knock-down-and-drag-out fight. I believe in compromise; you believe in appeasement; he believes in surrender.

My rich relative is "charmingly eccentric," but my indigent one is "as nutty as a fruit cake."

My daughter is something of a coquette; yours is an outrageous flirt; his is little better than a tramp.

I am fond of telling young men that "there is no substitute for experience," but I am equally fond of telling older men that "what we need are young ideas and a fresh, unhackneyed approach to this problem."

When I oppose a certain measure, I refer to it as an act of the "administration," but when I support it, I call it an act of the "government." Likewise, a constitutional decision I approve of is "the supreme law of the land," while one I disapprove is "just an opinion by five old men, with four old men disagreeing."

I confess to being "a creature of habit"; you are set in your ways; he is absolutely immovable.

When my son is involved with a girl I call it "a harmless case of puppy-love;" when my daughter is involved with a boy, I call it "a tragic and disgusting infatuation."

The difference between a "convert" and a "renegade" depends upon which side eventually wins the dispute.

'No Draft' Riots Blemish to State

100 YEARS AGO Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Nov. 20, 1962.

The legitimate fruits of the late disgraceful Democratic Convention in Milwaukee, at which E. C. Ryan's labored plea for treason and rebellion was adopted almost by acclamation, with the vociferous adherence of nearly the entire body of the Democratic partisan press of Wisconsin, are beginning to appear in their bitterness and poison.

No other result than the brutal tragedy by which the fair fame of our young State has been so fully tarnished, could have entered the imaginations or calculations of the ring leaders of that craven and assassin band.

In Milwaukee, the ingrate crew who paraded the streets under the Democratic banner of "No Draft," compelled the commissioner to resign in order to save his person and life from violence. Pretty much the same gang had paraded the streets on election day with an effigy of Judge Potter, hung and labeled as a Negro.

The draft was postponed and the books and papers necessary to the draft were transferred to Col. Lewis, of the 28th Regiment. Since then William J. Whaling, first commissioner, has been re-appointed with ample military assistance to enforce the draft. (Hon. W. A. Frenness, his successor when business called Whalen away, was the one mobbed).

Uncertain Times Now Face World

War, Death, Revolution Making Autumn a Period of Instability

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This crisp and lovely autumn has been a time of death, fear, revolution, uncertainty and disillusionment for men and nations, stretching across seas and continents.

Death and disillusionment hit Asia. Swift and sudden revolution burst in the Middle East. There was uncertainty in Europe. Fear of war circled over Cuba and the world.

In India Prime Minister Nehru, who ducked reality in trying to play shrewd by playing neutral, talked in terms of brotherhood with the Red Chinese.

This autumn he had to watch almost helplessly as Chinese forces smashed across the Indian frontier, killing Nehru's ill-equipped troops as they went, for reasons they haven't yet chosen to reveal.

Doesn't Know

As this is being written the bewildered prime minister doesn't know whether the Red armies will sweep down out of the mountains and across the plains of India.

He needed time to build a decent society out of the colossal poverty of India. If he didn't have to spend money on arms, he could use it for desperate peaceful needs of his country.

He thought the answer to time and money was in staying aloof from the contest between the West and communism. He even thought in the end Russia would save him from the Chinese. It didn't.

Now he finds the Communists used and abused him. Meanwhile, his people are dying under the Chinese guns. But even now, in his moment of Indian agony, while he cries for Western arms he still clings to neutralism.

In Yemen revolutionists overthrew the king in a savage stroke which may be only the beginning on bloodshed in the Middle East if the kings of Jordan and Saudi Arabia, fearing their own future, move in.

In Europe Chancellor Adenauer's regime was shaky from the discontent of West Germans with his defense minister, Franz Josef Strauss, for the way he cracked down on his critics on the staff of a magazine, Der Spiegel.

Strengthen Hold

In France elections Sunday seemed to strengthen the hand of President Charles de Gaulle who has been trying to strengthen the office he holds at the expense of Parliament and the French political party system which in the past has been erratic to the point of irresponsibility.

For one week after President Kennedy demanded the Russians get their missiles out of Cuba—or else—international jitters shook the world. If Russia refused, war could have come quickly.

Premier Khrushchev agreed to remove the weapons. Supposedly he has carried them off on ships. But this can't be positively known unless Cuba can be inspected. Fidel Castro refuses that.

Khrushchev left his bombers in Cuba, Kennedy said. Get them out, too. They wrote letters back and forth. Castro made demands of his own.

So Cuba isn't settled. It could get nasty. The West doesn't seem to know at this minute whether Khrushchev will turn Berlin into a time bomb by setting a new and quick deadline for settlement on that city.

This day a year ago hardly anything was happening except massacre in the Congo. That quieted down. It may blow wide open again.

Badgers Need Only Formality of Vote For Rose Bowl Trip

MADISON (AP)—Only the formality of a vote by Big Ten athletic directors remains before Wisconsin's football team represents the circuit in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day for the third time.

The Badgers smothered Illinois at Champaign 35-6 Saturday for a clear bid for the West Coast trip while clinching at least second place in the final standings.

Coach Milt Bruhn, however, has his eye on next Saturday's championship finale here against Minnesota, currently sharing the conference lead with five victories in six games. Bruhn says "The only thing is winning the title."

The Gophers played in the West Coast classic for the past two years and may not, under conference rules, repeat after this campaign even if they win the loop crown. A loss to Minnesota would not prevent Wisconsin's going, inasmuch as the runnerup is delegated.

"My first thought after we walked off the field at Illinois was 'beat Minnesota' and win that title," Bruhn said Sunday. "I refuse to think about postseason things when we have a title battle immediately in front of us. Besides, they still have to vote on a Rose Bowl selection. And they don't do that until after the final game."

'Pretty Fortunate,' Lombardi Says; Coach Lauds Both Defensive Units

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Thanksgiving may have come early for Vince Lombardi.

Obviously imbued with a deep sense of gratitude, born of a tingling tenth straight victory for his embattled Packers at the expense of Baltimore's frustrated Colts, the Packer head man confessed as much late Sunday afternoon, declaring, "We were pretty fortunate today."

"We made too many mistakes," he further volunteered. Then, reconsidering, Vince smiled at the press corps clustered about him in his City Stadium office and amended this to read, "No, I said, 'The Packers have a good guess we didn't make too many mistakes.' (We won, didn't we?)"

Had it been the Packer's toughest game he was asked: "Yes, I would say so. Baltimore played a great ball game — and both clubs played a great defensive game."

Compare Games

How did he compare Baltimore's performance in the just-commenced 17-13 victory to their Colts' City Stadium effort "equal artistry in a 17-6 decision over the Hosses in the east Oct. 28? Packers in Baltimore — in some 'It was about the same as the game they played against us in Baltimore," Lombardi said.

In view of the Packers' difficulties on offense, had the Colts' defense sprung any surprises? "No, it was just aggressive defense," Vince asserted. "They did nothing different than they did in the beginning of the season," Baltimore.

Could he ever remember a game with a pair of goal line stands like the ones his Packers had staged? "Oh yes," Lombardi replied with a grin. "There have been a lot of them."

"I only went to church once today — I should have gone three times, judging from the way the ball was bouncing out there today," the Colts' peppery Weeb Ewbank quipped dryly.

"One time the ball bounced extra 20 yards on a Dowler punt when it looked like it was going out of bounds and another time one of his punts rolled dead on our two-yard-line instead of going into the end zone."

Dispensing with the levity, he amended this to read, "No, I said, 'The Packers have a good guess we didn't make too many mistakes.' (We won, didn't we?)"

Lions Keep Title Hopes Alive With Win Over Vikings

Earl Morrall Directs Detroit To 17-6 Comeback Triumph

MINNEAPOLIS-St. Paul (AP)—hit 8 of 17 passes the first half. Quarterback Earl Morrall came off the bench the second half to pump life into Detroit's listless offense and direct the Lions to a 17-6 National Football League victory over Minnesota Sunday.

The Lions' 8th triumph in 10 games kept alive Detroit's hopes of overtaking Green Bay in the Western Conference. The division's two leaders meet Thursday. It was Minnesota's eighth defeat in 10 outings.

Morrall fired two short-yardage touchdown passes to end Jim Gibbons in the third quarter to erase a 6-3 Minnesota lead.

Gibbons' receptions gave him 176 for an all-time career record, eclipsing the old mark of 174 by Leon Hart.

Before Morrall's appearance, the Lions had managed only 11 yards rushing under the direction of Milt Plum the first half. Plum hit 8 of 17 passes the first half for 108 yards, but couldn't get Detroit across the goal.

The first half was a virtual defensive standoff with the Vikings claiming a 6-3 edge at intermission on a pair of field goals from the 16 and 14 yard lines by Jim Christopherson.

Plum booted a 32-yard fielder for the Lions after regular kicker Wayne Walker had missed twice from the 26.

It didn't take the Lions long to break it open after halftime. On the third play after the kickoff, Morrall handed off to Tom Watkins, who slid off right tackle, shook off a tackler at the line of scrimmage and broke into the open.

Watkins was finally hauled down from behind by Jim Marshall at the Viking 5 after a 60-yard sprint. On the next play, Morrall hit Gibbons up the middle for the game's first touchdown.

The next time Detroit got the ball, the Lions swept 76 yards in 11 plays for the clincher with 5:25 left in the third period. Morrall again hit Gibbons up the middle from the 2 for the score.

Morrall finished with 11 completions in 18 attempts for 137 yards.

3 Goal-Line Stands Enable Packers to Score 17-13 Win; Adderley Runs 103 Yards

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Three great goal-line stands . . . a 103-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Herb Adderley . . . and a 23-yard, fool-'em touchdown run by Tom Moore.

Add a field goal by Jerry Kramer and you have the makings of one of the choicest victories in Packer history — a 17-13 verdict over the Baltimore Colts in City Stadium Sunday afternoon.

This was the Packers' 10th straight triumph, and it wasn't safe until the final gun sounded. The hair-raising near-loss left the packed stadium of 38,669 limp.

The scene now shifts to Detroit Thanksgiving Day when the Packers battle second-place Lions (8-2) in a championship showdown. The Bays can clinch a tie for the Western title by winning.

Minimum of Offense

The Packers won Sunday with a clutch defense and a minimum of offense. The Colts rolled up an impressive 380 yards, but they scored but one touchdown—a 34-yard John Unitas-to-Johnny Orr vis slammed Unitas to the ground before he could pass. That was the game.

Run Off 79 Plays

The Bay defense was exceptionally busy. The Colts ran off 79 plays against the Bays' 49 and in the first half the Colts ran up 234 yards against the Packers' 31 and a 13-2 edge in first downs. Yet, the score was tied 10-up at the intermission.

The Colts got off to a 3-0 lead on Bielski's 42-yard field goal at 8:36 of the first period. The Bays went ahead 16 seconds later when Adderley took the next kickoff back for a touchdown. J. Kramer booted a field goal just before the period. With 54 seconds left in the half, Unitas passed to Orr for a touchdown and the score was tied.

Bielski kicked his second field goal midway in the third period to put the Colts ahead but on the third play of the fourth quarter Bart Starr faked Jim Taylor into the line and then handed off to Moore who ran outside the sucker-in Colt defense for 23 yards and the payoff TD.

The Big Thorn

The entire Bay defense got in on the heroics, but the big thorn in Unitas' side was Forester who repeatedly caught the Colt QB for losses. Nelson Toburen, who replaced the injured Dan Currie, suffered a painful shoulder injury in tackling Unitas in the fourth quarter. Toburen hit John U. so hard that the ball was jarred loose and Nitschke recovered. Ken Iman, the No. 3 man at the position, finished out and stood his ground in the final goal line stand. All four goal plays went toward him.

The offense had tough sledding but Starr came up with the big call, which would be Moore's TD.

Packers Wanted to Win Game for Hanner, Says Bill Forester

Linebacker Rough On Unitas in One Of Greatest Days

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — There was method in Bill (Bubba) Forester's Sunday madness.

The Packers' soft-spoken defensive captain, who has had more than a few good days in his distinguished 10-year career but probably none to equal yesterday's study in virtuosity, said simply, "It was the game we wanted to win for Dave (Hanner). We wanted to give him the game ball."

The far-ranging Forester, it will have to be admitted, did his bit. Among other contributions, he four times stormed through the Colts' protective cordon to hurl John Unitas for losses totaling 35 yards, which may be a new record for this specialty.

The first time, when he flattened John four yards behind the line of scrimmage, he caused the Colts to settle for a field goal after being in a third-and-3 situation prior to Forester's heroics.

Forces a Punt

On the second, also a third down play, he pinned an 11-yard deficit on the "king of quarterbacks," forcing a punt. On the fourth, he saved a possible touchdown by spinning Unitas to earth on the Packer 14, in the second quarter on a fourth down play that had started from the one.

The third, which had seen "Bubba" fell Unitas for a 7-yard loss, had come four plays earlier but was nullified when Bob Boyd, holding for a fake field goal, ran 13 yards down to the sidelines to a first down on the one.

The explanation? "Things kind of came our way," Forester said with a shy smile. "We were in a red dog type of defense where we were shooting the linebackers quite a bit. I got Unitas scot free a couple of times and a couple of times I went through the full-back." (This last, it might be added, is an entirely accurate description of what transpired.)

"With Bill Quinlan and Henry Jordan over there," Forester concluded with a grin, "they keep those linemen pretty busy."

Jordan, who triggered the breakup of Unitas' fourth down pass on the Colts' final threat late in the fourth quarter, reported, "I hit him and I hit his arm. He fell and threw at the same time."

"I turned and looked to see who was going to catch the ball but there was nobody between me and Herb Adderley, who knocked it down. In fact," Henry drawled, "I think Herb might

Giants Defeat Eagles, 19-14, In Mud, Snow

Chandler Kicks 4 Field Goals to Top Stubborn Defense

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Chandler, converted from a punter to a field goal kicker during the training season, kicked four field goals Sunday to give the New York Giants a 19-14 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles in the mud, rain and snow.

Chandler kicked from the 28 in the wild 24-point first period, the 29 in the second, the 37 in the third and the 28 in the fourth as the Giants overcame stubborn Eagle defenses.

Alex Webster, the veteran full-back, pounded through the mud and goo for an 8-yard touchdown run in the first period and piled up valuable clock-eating yardage all through the dull, gray afternoon.

Y. A. Tittle, who had thrown 13 touchdown passes in the last three games and 22 during the season, didn't get any with the slippery ball. Sonny Jurgensen, the Eagles' quarterback, did hit speedy Tommy McDonald with a 34-yard scoring pass in the first period after moving the club down field, helped by a 34-yard pass to Theron Sapp.

Tim Brown of the Eagles turned in the most spectacular run with a 61-yard romp up the sidelines when Jurgensen faked a pass and handed off to him on a reverse in the waning minutes of the first period.

The Giants trailed 14-10 at the end of the first period. Despite Chandler's second field goal, the Eagles were still out front 14-13 at the half. Chandler's third goal

Bart completed eight out of 13 passes for 57 yards.
Taylor, as always, was a marked man. He carried 19 times under extremely hazardous conditions and finished with 46 yards — his lowest total of the season. He finished the day as the Bays' all-time leading ground gainer with 4,228 yards. This broke Tony Canadeo's record of 4,197.

4 Quick First Downs
There were indications that the Colts came to play after the opening kickoff. They ran up four quick first downs and moved from their own 32 to the Packer 9, 20, the Colts reached the Bay 13 chiefly on Unitas passes to Owens and Orr for 36 yards and runs of 15 and 11 yards by L. Moore and Smolinski.

Willie Wood and Nitschke clobbered Owens just after he caught a Unitas pass and Ray grabbed the inevitable fumble on the 2. The Packers were stopped with 5 yards and Boyd Dowler, with a good roll, got off a 63-yard punt. The Colts added two more first downs and Bielski then booted his longest field goal, with the ball barely going over the crossbar. Adderley took Bielski's kickoff behind the goal posts, ran straight up the middle, got a good block on Lenny Lyles close to midfield and then cut to his right and toward the west sidelines for the TD.

After an exchange of punts Adderley intercepted a Unitas pass and returned 21 yards to the Col. 17. Starr had Mc Gee cold in the end zone, but the pass was wide. Two plays later J. Kramer booted a 24-yard field goal for a 10-3 lead.

Bays Dig In
After another exchange of punts early in the second quarter the Colts worked down to the Packer 15 on two Unitas passes and an 11-yard run by Unitas. The Bays dug in and forced a field goal try by Bielski.

But wait a minute. Bob Boyd, who was to hold the ball, got up and ran like a scared rabbit around end. The Bays were fooled but they recovered in time to push him out of bounds on the 1. Here's where the Packers dug in. Matte hit the right side, but Smolinski the left and Hawkins recovered on the right for no yards. On fourth 48, down Unitas backed up to roll!

out but Forester was in on him. Unitas threw the ball in the air in disgust after he was downed. Dowler was forced to punt again, though the Bays got a bad break when no penalty was called as a Colt ripped the face guard off Max' helmet. The Colts scored in two plays from the Bay 48. After Owens caught a pass for 14, Unitas hurled a perfect strike to Orr in the end zone.

The touch Colts forced a punt as the second half opened and then quickly took a 13-10 lead. With Moore running for 34 yards and Unitas passing to Owens for 20, the Colts reached the Bay 13 and Bielski kicked an 18-yard field goal.

Passes to Kramer
At this point it appeared that the Packer offense would start to move. Starr hurled passes of 12 yards to Ron Kramer, 7 to McGee and 11 to Dowler while Taylor and Moore ran for four first downs. The attack bogged down and Dowler dropped a short punt to the 2.

The Bay defense stiffened and kept the Colts from a first down by inches, forcing the punt on the last play of the third quarter. Wood took the boot on the Packer 48 and, with Pitts getting a key block, returned 16 yards to the Col. 32.

Three plays later T. Moore zipped outside right tackle for the TD, with 46 seconds gone in the fourth period. J. Kramer's second point set the final score at 17-13. Now the dog-fight was really on. After an exchange of punts, the Colts got a first down on Smolinski's running at the Col. 33. Unitas then fumbled when hit by Toburen, and it appeared the Packers had the show under control at the 50.

Starr had Mc Gee loose around the 15, but his pass was short and Max had to come back. Welch interfered with Mc Gee and the Bays had the ball on the 11. It looked good but two plays later Tavor fumbled and the Colts' Smith recovered. The Bay defense was up to the task and quickly forced a punt push him out of bounds on the 1. Here's where the Packers dug in. Matte hit the right side, but Smolinski the left and Hawkins recovered on the right for no yards. On fourth 48, down Unitas backed up to roll!

Now it really looked like cur-

Browns Score 38-14 Win Over St. Louis

Ryan, Jim Brown Pace Cleveland
To Fifth Victory

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fullback Jim Brown scored four touchdowns and quarterback Frank Ryan enjoyed his greatest passing day as the Cleveland Browns defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 38-14 Sunday.

Brown picked up 85 yards in 19 runs, and Ryan completed 13 of 21 passes for 241 yards. The Browns outgained the hapless Cardinals by only two yards but built up their 24-point margin as the St. Louis club lost the ball twice on the two-yard line after long drives.

The victory moved the Browns to a 5-4-1 record in the National Football League's Eastern Conference as St. Louis dropped to 2-7-1.

Unitas hit L. Moore twice for 27 yards and then ran 25 yards himself down the west sidelines to the Packer 7 with 4:42 left.

Here's where the Packers dug in. Moore got to the 2 on first down. Smolinski got to the 1 on the next play. On third down Smolinski was hurled for a 1-yard loss and on fourth down Adderley made a leap to kyo a pass intended for Orr.

With 2:15 left and the ball on the Packer 19 with third and 11, Starr hurled a pass toward Dowler off to the right but it went incomplete and the Colts received one man chance.

The Bays stopped four straight pass attempts and the day was saved. Baltimore 3 7 3 0-13 Green Bay 10 0 0 7-17

Gary Collins, Cleveland punter who has seen little active service this year, was Ryan's big target as he caught six passes for 88 yards and one touchdown. Several of his catches were sensational. He played only a portion of the game, replacing Ray Renfro, who suffered a first period eye injury.

24-0 Lead
The Browns broke away to a 24-0 lead on Collins' touchdown, a pair by Brown and Lou Groza's 34-yard field goal before the Cardinals scored in the wild fourth period. Prentice Gault climaxed a 71-yard, 12-play drive with a six-inch scoring plunge, and later Mal Hammack scored on a 23-yard run.

Brown, who had scored on runs of 3 and 4 yards in the third period, sandwiched a 16-yard touchdown between the scores by Gault and Hammack, and then wound up the game with a 7-yard scoring sprint.

With Ryan passing effectively, the Browns moved for touchdowns in four long drives. One went 77 yards in six plays, and the others 70 in four, 66 in six and 52 in six. The other touchdown was a short drive. After Galen Fiss had intercepted a Sam Etcheverry pass.

Gault, who went to St. Louis from the Browns, led the Cardinal ground-gainers with 69 yards in 15 tries.

at 10 minutes, 17 seconds of the third put the Eastern Conference leaders out front to stay 16-14.

The fourth field goal, breaking the club record and falling one short of the National Football League mark, came at 1:42 of the final period. Chandler also missed one field goal attempt from the 43 in the first period.

The fifth straight sellout crowd was announced at 62,705, but some of the wiser ticket buyers must have stayed home. There were gaps in the stands. It was the Giants' fifth straight victory and their eighth in 10 starts.

Webster carried 28 times for 107 yards, more than the Giants' running game had produce in any previous outing.

Brodie Guides 49ers Past Rams

San Francisco Quarterback Tosses Two TD Passes in 24-17 Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Quarterback John Brodie threw two touchdown passes and guided San Francisco on three long-range scoring drives Sunday to defeat the Los Angeles Rams 24-17 and snap a four-game losing streak by the 49ers.

The outcome of the National Football League contest, played before 42,554 under bright skies in Memorial Coliseum, left the Rams in the cellar of the Western Conference with a 1-9 record and the 49ers with a 4-6 standing.

The Rams opened the scoring with a 43-yard field goal by Danny Villanueva and finally got two touchdowns in the last quarter—their first in three games and 11 quarters of football.

The first of the two touchdowns came on a 27-yard pass from Zeke Bratkowski to Jim Phillips, who caught the ball in the air after 49er Elbert Kimbrough deflected the throw.

San Francisco went ahead in the second quarter when Brodie passed three yards to Bill Kilmer, capping a 71-yard drive enhanced by a 35-yard pass from Brodie to Bernie Casey.

Tommy Davis booted a 38-yard field goal in the third period, a play set up by a 48-yard pass from Brodie to Monty Stickles.

The San Francisco margin widened later in the third when the 49ers again drove 73 yards in six plays. Kilmer scoring from the three. A 43-yard pass from Brodie to Stickles set this one up.

It took seven plays to go 65 yards in the fourth quarter for the third 49er touchdown. It came on a 37-yard scoring strike from Brodie to Jim Johnson, who made a running, fingertip catch in the end zone with Ed Meador racing just behind.

Recover Fumble
Trailing 24-10, the Rams recovered a fumble on the 49er 12 and two plays later Bratkowski passed to Dick Bass for a touchdown.

San Francisco lost two perfect touchdown opportunities in the first half. The first came in the first quarter when Brodie, after a 17-yard run, fumbled the ball away when hit by Merlin Olsen. In the second quarter, Kilmer fumbled on the one-yard line on a hot pass from his center and the Rams recovered.

An all-Texas American Football League championship seemed in the offing today as the two closest rivals of the division-leading Dallas Texans and Houston Oilers began to fade from sight.

The Texans still will have to contend with the second-place Denver Broncos in the Western Division, even after handling them 24-3 Sunday, but the biggest break has gone to the Oilers—and against the Boston Patriots.

Division by one-half game following a 21-17 victory over the Patriots, may find the pressure eased since Boston's veteran quarterback, Babe Parilli, has been lost for the rest of the season with a broken collarbone suffered in Sunday's clash.

Five of Six
Buffalo, with five victories and a tie in its last six games, handed winless Oakland its 10th loss in the only other scheduled game, coming from behind for a 10-6 victory.

Dallas (8-2) will have played two fewer games than Denver by next weekend as the Broncos have a Thanksgiving Day game at home against the New York Titans. Denver has suddenly lost its once-powerful attack, getting only 81 yards passing and 91 on the ground Sunday, and still must face an improving Dallas team once more.

The Texans' ace quarterback, Len Dawson, bombed Denver's secondary with three TD passes, raising his league-leading total to 24. Gene Mingo's first period field goal was the only offense Denver (7-4) could produce.

Parilli had thrown one touchdown pass for Boston before his crippling injury. Oilers' quarterback George Blanda tossed a pair to overcome Boston's 7-0 lead and Charlie Tolar added the last Houston (7-3) TD.

Rarely Used
Tom Yewic, rarely used this year, stepped in for Parilli and threw a 69-yard scoring toss to Ron Burton. He is expected to handle the Pats (6-3-1) quarterbacking for the remainder of the season.

Making his first appearance for the Bills since being obtained from San Diego, Jackie Kemp hit ex-Raider Wayne Crow with a 27-yard touchdown pass in the third period. This wiped out a 6-3 Oakland lead fashioned by a pair of field goals by 43-year-old Ben Agajanian.

Wade Passes for 470 Yards, 2 TDs To Lead Chicago

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Roger LeClerc kicked a 12-yard field goal with 31 seconds left Sunday and the Chicago Bears won a come-from-behind 34-33 victory over the Dallas Cowboys in the National Football League.

Joe Fortunato blocked Sam Baker's try for point after the first Dallas touchdown in the second period and that was the eventual difference. Billy Wade passed for 470 yards, two touchdowns and scored a touchdown himself in leading the Bears to victory before a chilled crowd that huddled in 44-degree temperatures.

Wade also contributed to all the other Chicago scores with his deadly passing although given a terrific rush by the Cowboy line-backers. Good Passing Day
Don Meredith had a good passing day for Dallas. He pitched for 162 yards and three touchdowns. The game was a standoff in a battle of field goals with Baker booting two for Dallas and LeClerc the same for Chicago.

The game was close all the way until Dallas pulled to a 9-point lead.

Maple Leafs Can't Handle Lowly Rangers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Toronto Coach Punch Imlach today has an unusual and embarrassing problem: His Maple Leafs just can't seem to handle the lowly New York Rangers.

The Rangers, who haven't caused major discomfort among the rest of the National Hockey League for some time, have made the playoffs only once in the last four seasons and currently reside in fifth place.

They have played the Stanley Cup champion Maple Leafs five times this season and have skated off with victories three times. By contrast, Toronto has lost only four games to the rest of the league.

The Rangers turned the trick again Sunday night, snapping a five-game Toronto winning string 3-1 and delaying, at least momentarily, the Leafs drive to overtake the leaders. Detroit beat Boston 3-1 and Chicago and Montreal played to a 1-1 tie in the other games.

Second period goals by Ken Schinkel and Jean Ratelle and the steady, often spectacular goaltending of Gump Worsley were the keys to the Ranger victory.

More Than 200 Honor Bernie at Anniversary Dinner

BY DON LEMKE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A turnaway crowd of over 200 gathered at the Riverview Country Club Saturday night to pay enthusiastic and sincere tribute to Lawrence Coach and Athletic Director Bernie Heselton, now commemorating his 25th year as Viking football mentor.

The climax of an evening packed with emotion and memories came when the silver-anniversary coach replied to the many words of recognition and honor his friends and players had uttered during the program.

In a moment which comes only once to the greatest of coaches, Bernie Heselton, is voice choking, said, "Any person who ever played for me is a great guy. What you people have done for me..."

Put in Seraphook

Words of praise flowed freely from those present and in letters from those unable to attend. The letters, gathered together in a scrapbook which was presented to Coach Heselton, included the highest praise from former players, Dr. Nathan Pusey, Harvard University president, Vince Lombardi, Green Bay Packers Coach, Ivy Williamson, Wisconsin athletic director, and many others.

Russ Flom, speaking as a friend of Bernie and his wife Alice since 1938 and as the father of two sons who played during the era, said "We have always been proud of the players we have seen on the football field for Lawrence. These are fine young gentlemen influenced by a great coach."

Talking directly to Heselton, Flom concluded by saying "We salute you as a friend, a great football coach, an outstanding member of the Lawrence faculty, a fine leader, a strong competitor, a good citizen and a builder of character."

Dr. Douglas Knight, third Lawrence president since Coach Heselton arrived on the Appleton scene, said all the past presidents speak of Bernie with enduring affection. "We are proud of you."

Recalling that 68 football games had been played since he arrived at Lawrence nine years ago, Dr.

Knight said, "Bernie has succeeded in teaching me many things during this period." The words of the Lawrence president were reiterated by many others during the evening in a variety of forms.

New Challenges

A. C. Denny, himself with the Lawrence athletic department since the early 1920s, spoke of the great new challenges the Lawrence football coaches have had to meet since the earlier days. "Bernie has met these challenges with dedication, patience and hard work."

"No one works harder than Bernie," the director of recreation continued. "He has unified the alumni and the faculty behind the athletic program. Whatever he does, he does well."

Bob Curry, a guard on the Heselton teams of the early 1940's, said, "we all feel we've played under one of the greatest coaches and one of the finest of men."

Joe Grecco, another player during Coach Heselton's first years at Lawrence said, "Our presence honors him. We are proud to be able to reflect in the glory of a moment which is his. What could I say? When we are within hailing distance our paths always run out to Alexander gym."

The captain of the 1949 championship team and now Coach Heselton's line coach, Don Boya, called the celebrated guard "one of the greatest coaches in the Midwest. He has taught a lot of us a lot of things. It has been a great privilege for me to play under him for four years and to be his assistant coach the last six years."

Several presentations to Coach Heselton, spoke of the "other side of Bernie." He recalled how he was voted the outstanding high school athletic during his senior

Tony Lema Victor By 7 Strokes in Mobile Tourney

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—In racing, you could have said he lapped the field; in boxing it probably would have been a TKO; in football, or just about any sport, it was a run-away.

Tall Tony Lema won the fourth annual $15,000 Mobile Golf Tournament by a seven-stroke margin—the most since Arnold Palmer captured a PGA sanctioned tournament title by a seven-stroke edge earlier this year.

The 28-year-old Lema was two strokes off the pace in the opening round Thursday, took a stroke lead Friday, built it to seven strokes Saturday and finished Sunday with a 70 to maintain his edge.

year, his activity in semi-professional baseball and his hole-in-one shot at Butte des Morts in Appleton.

Vince Jones, co-captain of the 1940 team, indicated the tremendous response the committee has had in making preparations for the program. "We had phone calls from four different parts of the United States today," he said.

Ken Buesing, 1939 co-captain and toastmaster for the evening, introduced the speakers following several standing ovations for the most successful football coach in the Midwest Conference.

Michaels Kicks 3 Goals

Steelers Edge 'Skins In Final 13 Seconds

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Lou Michaels kicked a 24-yard field goal, his third of the game, with 13 seconds left Sunday to pull out a 23-21 victory for the Pittsburgh Steelers over the Washington Redskins in a National Football League game.

Michaels, the NFL's top field goal kicker, ran his total for the season to 17, surpassing the club record of 15 he set last year.

Quarterback Ed Brown came off the bench in the final quarter after Bobby Layne was injured to put the Steelers within range for the game-winning kick.

The victory before a crowd of 21,231 in chilly weather gave the Steelers a 6-4 record in the East-have intercepted it if I hadn't hit Unitas' arm."

An exhausted citizen, Herb confided, "I saw daylight (on his 103-yard kickoff runback) after I passed the wedge—I got great blocking from the wedge. On my last cut, I saw a green jersey. I just cut off that green jersey and I saw daylight."

"I've never had a run like that before," he revealed. "Without a doubt, it was my longest."

The little Michigan State alum saw another "all the way" opportunity on his second quarter interception, with which he streaked 21 yards to the Colt 17. "After I made a couple of fakes and went to the outside, I thought I might go," Herb confided. "But I got tripped up by the last man."

Turning his attention to the Colts, he volunteered, "Lennie Moore makes a great difference in their offense. They'd probably be a contender if they had him all the time."

This was, incidentally, a fair example of "turning the other cheek." Adderley, sporting a badly cut and swollen lower lip, explained, "Moore kicked me in the mouth. It was the back of his shoe, though, it wasn't intentional."

Big Willie Davis, who with Quintan had throttled Unitas on fourth down in the final bid to quash the Colts' last bid, imparted soulfully, "I just closed my eyes on that one and took off—I knew they had 15 yards to go. I was just going to get in there any way I could. I didn't think about a run or anything."

Jim Taylor, who has broken Tony Canadeo's all-time Packer ground gaining record but was limited to a modest (for him) 46 yards in the process, declared, "I haven't seen anything like it in the league. The Colt defense is as tough as I've ever run against."

"Breaks, those fumble recoveries and the two goal line stands gave it to us," he said.

Was he disappointed? "How can you be disappointed?" he replied with unreluctant logic, "when you win?"

What had produced his fourth quarter fumble on the Colt 4-yard line? "I slipped when I went through the line," Taylor said, "and I lost the ball. I don't quite know how it happened."

Marveling over the enormous hole opened for him on his touchdown run, Tom Moore grinned and said, "It's a wonder I didn't fall down, it opened up so big."

"I don't think anybody laid a hand on me," he added. It was a terrific hole and the other guys (the Baltimore defense) were playing a little bit wide so there was a lane to the goal line."

A scubdued Elijah Pitts, describing the fumbled punt that produced some anxious moments in the closing stages, explained, "One man had hold of me and I was trying to struggle out of his grasp. When I tried to pull away, somebody came up from behind and hit me right in the arm. I had the ball in."

"I saw our boys up the side lines," Elijah said, "so it would have been a good return but I probably should have fair caught the ball."

"That was the toughest few minutes," the pride of Philander T. Smith soberly confided, "that I've ever been through."

ern Conference. They're in third place.

Second-place Washington, with a record of 5-3-2, next weekend plays division leader New York, which Sunday beat Philadelphia, 10-14.

Pittsburgh's first touchdown in the final period came on a 20-yard toss from Brown to Red Mack. Brown then hit Buddy Dial with a 9-yard scoring heave.

Michaels kicked a 37-yard field goal in the first quarter, and another one for 19 yards in the second period. He also converted after the Steeler touchdowns.

Quarterback Norman Sneed, red-dogged by the Steelers' defense in the first half, adroitly engineered two quick touchdowns for Washington in the third quarter.

Sneed hit Jim Cunningham for 10 yards and a touchdown in the second quarter and connected with Bill Anderson for 46 yards for another touchdown in the third period. Billy Barnes raced 32 yards for Washington's other score in the same quarter after taking a handoff from Sneed.

Bob Khayat of Washington missed two field goal attempts from 35 yards and 11 yards in the first quarter before Sneed finally hit for a touchdown.

A 56-yard pass from Sneed to Barnes set up Washington's first touchdown in the second quarter. Sneed hit Cunningham for the score with the former Pitt star making a diving catch as he crossed the goal line.

Packers Were Fortunate, Vince Says

agree with Lombardi's contention that he had never seen general John look better. "I couldn't say that," Ewbank said, "but John had a good day. I was pleased."

Memories of the faithful, who can hark back to seven world championships were pleasantly revived between halves when president John Marinkovic of the Packer Alumni Assn. introduced more than 50 of the "old grads" to the 38,669 sitting in on Packer homecoming, which this year was combined with "Hawg Hanner Day" and a salute to E. L. (Curly) Lambeau, Packer founder.

Speaking of defense, what of fourth quarter casualty Nelson Toburen? "I don't know," Vince said. "He's in the hospital right now. Our doctor's first diagnosis was a pinched nerve in the neck but that hasn't been confirmed as yet."

Crunching Tackle

"I don't know how Nelson got hurt," the Packer major-domo added in answer to another question. A quick query of defense coach Phil Bengtson disclosed that Toburen had been injured in applying a crunching tackle to the Colts' guiding genius, John Unitas, a collision which produced an opportune fumble and led directly to Ray Nitschke's second recovery of the afternoon.

Did this mean that Ken Iman, Toburen's replacement, would be playing against the Lions in Detroit Thursday? "I don't know. If it's a pinched nerve, Toburen should be ready to play."

What of Dan Currie's status? "I doubt if he'll play," Lombardi said without hesitation. Currie incurred a sprained knee in the 49-0 decimation of Philadelphia's Eagles a week earlier.

Lombardi had good news, however, about another Packer casualty.

Hornung Ready

Paul Hornung, who has seen only brief action since suffering a knee injury against the Minnesota Vikings Oct. 14, "should be ready Thursday," he revealed. The National Football League's three-time leading scorer, it developed, could have played Sunday.

"I held him out," Vince said, "because I just figured the other boy (Tom Moore) was doing all right."

Moore's decisive 23-yard scoring sortie in the final period had begun as a crossbuck, Vince explained. "Starr (quarterback Bart) faked to Jim Taylor, and then gave the ball to Moore. Most of them (Baltimore's defenders) went for Taylor."

Who had saved the day by knocking down Unitas' desperation fourth pass in the end zone late in the final period? "Herb Adderley knocked it down but I think it was deflected first by a lineman, probably Forester."

"That, by the way, is as fine a football game as I've ever seen Bubba Forester play," Lombardi said. "Bubba played a fine game—he made some real big plays today."

Did he feel Unitas had been up to par? A Baltimore scribe interjected? "Yes, sir," Vince shot back with a smile. "I've never seen him look better."

Block by Iman

Another writer noted, that sophomore Iman had delivered a "beautiful block" to spring Adderley on his 103-yard kickoff return. "Iman is a good football player," Vince declared.

What about Detroit? "We have to go there," Lombardi replied. "We have to go there." Vince, who has made no secret of his desire to terminate or at least temporarily suspend the Packers' participation in the Thanksgiving Day classic, added, "We may have to play it for one more year because of the television contract. After that, they can give somebody else a chance."

Returning to the events of the day, he summed up, "We made two picture plays, Adderley's marathon dash and Moore's scoring burst. That was it."

Badgers Will be Slight Favorites

Nation's Scoring Leader, UW, To Test Tough Gopher Defense

BY JOE MOOSRIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Offense vs. Defense. That's what the big football race settles down to when Wisconsin and Minnesota clash at Madison Saturday for the Big Ten Conference football championship.

Wisconsin, the nation's scoring leader with an average of 34½ points a game, sealed a bid to 1941, the Rose Bowl with a 35-6 rout of Illinois Saturday.

Minnesota, one of the year's outstanding defensive teams, brought about the title match became from behind and defeated Purdue 7-6. The Gophers, who are not eligible to appear in the Rose Bowl this season, held the Boilermakers to two field goals, marking the sixth time in eight games they have kept the opposition from scoring a touchdown.

Neither team will be lacking incentive. Needing only the formality of an athletic directors vote to become the official Rose Bowl representative, Wisconsin also has a chance to win the national championship.

The Badgers were ranked fourth in The Associated Press poll last week and should climb at least one notch this week following top-ranked Alabama's loss to Georgia Tech.

Minnesota, the Rose Bowl representative the past two seasons for the strength of a title tie in 1960 and a second-place finish last year, has not won the undisputed Big Ten championship since 1941.

Minnesota's victory over Purdue and Northwestern's 31-7 loss to Michigan State Saturday brought about the title match between the Badgers and the Gophers. In other games Saturday, the Iowa defeated Michigan 28-14 and Ohio State slugged Oregon 26-7.

Wisconsin's lone loss was 14-7 at Ohio State. Aside from the Northwestern defeat, the only other blemish on the Gopher record was a season-opening scoreless tie against Missouri.

In the shadow of the championship struggle, other Big Ten teams will close the season this weekend. Northwestern will be at Miami, Fla., Friday night and Saturday's encounters find Iowa at Notre Dame, Michigan State at Illinois, Michigan at Ohio State and Indiana at Purdue.

Sea Disasters Kill 144 in Past Week

Money Loss Will Run Into Millions In All Oceans

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A casualty roll of world sea disasters edged upward today, with 144 persons listed as dead or missing in a series of mishaps that started last week. Trouble in the Atlantic and the Pacific, the North Sea and the Mediterranean ran shipping losses into millions of dollars.

Nearly 100 seafarers were rescued from vessels sunk, battered or disabled by howling weekend storms. High waves pounded the coasts of Puerto Rico and Cuba, causing death, injury, and property damage.

The entire 36-man crew of the Japanese gasoline tanker Munakata Maru was presumed killed in a blazing inferno following a collision Sunday with another tanker in a narrow fog-shrouded channel of Tokyo Bay.

Bodies Recovered

Thirty-two bodies had been recovered.

The fire was believed touched off by a barge's funnel sparks dropping on high-octane gasoline leaking from the damaged 1,372-ton Munakata Maru. She carried 950,000 gallons of gasoline.

Three crewmen on two barges caught in the flames also were lost.

The 47 persons aboard the 21,634-ton Norwegian tanker Tharald Brovig, the other ship in the collision, were rescued. Ten suffered minor injuries.

The ships crashed and locked 200 yards from shore in Kawasaki Canal 12 miles from Tokyo.

Elsewhere at sea:

The 11 crewmen of the fishing scalloper Midnight Sun, out of New Bedford, Mass., were unaccounted for after a storm at sea Wednesday. The vessel failed to return to port when due Saturday.

Twelve Spanish fishermen were presumed drowned in a storm off the Spain's north coast Sunday. Their last radioed report said their boat was leaking.

Japan's Maritime Safety Agency reported two Japanese fishing boats with 26 crewmen were missing between their home ports and Okinawa. It said they were believed to have run into typhoon Karen, which skirted the Ryukyu Islands last weekend.

Nine Perish

Five British rescuers and four fishermen perished under a huge wave that capsized their lifeboat Saturday at the harbor entrance to Seaham, Britain. A fifth fisherman was saved. The rescue crew had taken the fishermen off their battered boat.

A search continued Monday off the Bermuda and North Carolina coasts for five crewmen missing with their 35-foot sailing schooner, the Windfall, since Thursday in a race with another ill-fated schooner from Mystic, Conn., to the Virgin Islands. The other schooner, the Curlew, foundered off Bermuda. Its crew was rescued.

Another search off Bermuda was abandoned for 15 seamen from the Greek freighter Captain George, rocked by an explosion Wednesday. The 25-man crew, unable to contain a fire aboard the explosive-laden ship, took to lifeboats Thursday. Seven were rescued. Three bodies were recovered. Five of the survivors were landed in Philadelphia.

Sixteen of 18 persons from a censized motorboat were reported missing today by Philippine authorities. The boat overturned Wednesday in the Sulu Archipelago. Fishermen reportedly rescued two persons.

Famed Nuclear Physicist Dies

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Dr. Niels Bohr, one of the century's leading nuclear physicists, is dead at 77.

He was stricken by a heart attack Sunday and died in his Copenhagen home.

Bohr, an absent-minded professor admired by scholars for his inspiring influence, generally was ranked second only to the late Albert Einstein among physicists of the 20th century.

"Our greatest living physicist has died," said Dr. Hans Bethe, who worked with Bohr on the development of the atomic bomb in the United States. Bethe of Ithaca, N.Y., said Bohr's death "leaves a void which nobody can fill."

southeast in the direction of the Indian army's advance headquarters on the Dhirang River.

The Indian army was reported planning to put their next defense line in this area of the northeast frontier district at 8,726-foot Bom-billa, on the next ridge of an Indian-built road running to Tezpur on the Assam plains.

The fall of Walong near the Burma border came after the biggest battle since the Chinese first struck.

Indian estimates put the Chinese attackers in this area at well above a division supported by artillery, heavy mortars and recoilless guns.

Luhit Valley Defenses

The Indians threw up hastily prepared defenses in the Luhit River valley a dozen miles south of Walong.

Indian air force planes and some civilian airliners are rushing troops to Teju, 136 miles south of Walong. Trains and trucks are then taking them up the valley to the front to try to hold the Chinese.

Officials in New Delhi said they still could not tell whether the Chinese would try to fight their way into the plains of Assam, outside the area they claim in the Himalayan area of northeast India.

India's most important oil fields and some coal mines are close to the point at which the Luhit Valley enters the plains.

School Work Suffers in Red Regime

Chicago Daily News Service

MUNICH, Germany — School work is suffering in Czechoslovakia because children are obliged to spend too many of their school hours on other things, according to the party Daily Rude Pravo.

It calculated that time lost in the course of a year sometimes adds up to as much as two months, says Radio Free Europe.

"This is too much," the newspaper warned. "It is necessary to give consideration to this question and to eliminate this mischief from our schools."

It listed some of the extra-curricular activities that art threatening educational standards: Excessive brigade work in farms and on building sites.

Too many cultural and sporting events.

Medical examinations, X-rays and inoculations.

Private recreational trips arranged by the parents.

Not only pupils but also teachers' commissions of various kinds.

Council Urged To Treat Issue 'With Charity'

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council was urged today to treat a controversial theological thesis with "charity, clarity, simplicity and gentleness" in the interest of Christian unity.

A spokesman, reporting on the closed session in St. Peter's, added that many of today's speakers argued that the council's work "must mark progress and not regression, help and not impediment" in the Christian unity field.

Before the council was a thesis on the sources of divine revelation. It has divided the 2,200 council fathers since last Wednesday, and today's debate dramatically pointed up the importance many of the prelates attach to it for current efforts to bring Christian churches together.

The spokesman said several prelates again asked that the thesis—prepared by a commission headed by conservative Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, secretary of the powerful Congregation of the Holy Office—be rewritten.

Other speakers, the spokesman said, made a new suggestion: that further debate be postponed until the second phase of the council, starting in May. This suggestion indicated the council was nearing the point where it must decide what to do.

South Carolina Negro Seeks to Break Race Bars

ANDERSON, S.C. (AP)—The school segregation barriers of South Carolina, the only state which has not admitted a Negro to a tax-supported white institution of learning, were to be assailed in U.S. District Court today.

Lawyers for Harvey G. Gantt, 19, a Charleston Negro, will ask that he be admitted to Clemson College, an all-white school since it was founded 73 years ago.

Gantt has been studying architecture at Iowa State University in Ames.

His case was to be tried by U.S. Dist. Judge C. C. Wyche of Spartanburg, who recently denied a request for a temporary injunction requiring Gantt's immediate admission to Clemson.

Clemson President Robert C. Edwards testified at that hearing that Gantt had not completed his application properly. He also said Clemson has no policy in regard to admission of Negroes.

The U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Judge Wyche's denial of the injunction, and sent the case back to him for trial.

Services Planned for Aluminum Firm Head

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Private funeral services were planned here today for Arthur Vining Davis, 95, former board chairman of the Aluminum Company of America.

Further services and burial will be at Locust Valley, Long Island, N.Y., later this week.

Davis, whose wealth was variously estimated at between $350 and $500 million, started his career in 1888 as a $60-a-month clerk.

Heavy Industry Big Soviet Goal

175-member Central Committee was called for the specific task of putting more life into the economy, much of which has been hindered and stifled by excessive bureaucracy but even more by lack of investment capital.

Revealing next year's production plans, Khrushchev said there should be an 8.5 per cent increase in capital goods. For consumer goods the proposed increase is 6.3 per cent.

Goal for Agriculture

Khrushchev said capital investment would total more than 33 billion rubles. (One ruble is officially valued at $1.11).

As for agriculture, he called for an increase of 32 million acres under field crops.

The meeting was behind closed doors. Khrushchev's speech was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass. The session is expected to last the rest of the week.

On the eve of the meeting, the Communist party organ Pravda had defended the government's Cuban rocket withdrawal and accused Red China of siding with the imperialists. The article also made an implied attack on Red China's border war against India.

Man Killed, 4 Others Injured in Collision

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP)—Robert J. Silbersack, 29, of Two Rivers, Wis., was killed and four other men were seriously injured Sunday night in a head-on collision on U.S. Highway 2 near here.

Seriously injured were Robert O. Gerroll, 37, and Darrol Johnson, 30, both of Two Rivers, and Harold Schroeder, 49, of Menomonee Falls and Carl Nunkala, 46, of Granville.

Jazz Comes to White House For Concert

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cool culture comes to the White House today.

A Jazz concert—the first ever held in the stately old executive mansion—will be presented by a young sextet that wants President Kennedy to keep on sending U.S. jazzmen abroad in the cultural exchange program.

The jazz session is the fifth of a series of Concerts for Youth sponsored by Mrs. Kennedy.

Sons and daughters of ambassadors and chiefs of diplomatic missions here will join the children of Cabinet officials for the late afternoon concert in the East Ballroom.

Leader of the sextet is Paul Winter, 23, a saxophone player from Altoona, Pa. A 20-year-old Korean pianist, Ton Il Han, will be featured.

Winter and his buddies, college students from Chicago area universities, won an international jazz festival award in 1961. As a result they were sent on a tour of Latin America last winter.

They were the first student jazz group sent abroad under a student exchange program and the enthusiasm with which they were received startled them.

In fact, says Winter, the six were so impressed with the effect their music had in South America that they decided to put aside other careers for the moment to devote themselves to cultural exchange music projects.

Alone among the old parties, the Communists registered a gain—a slight one—in voting percentages, advancing from 18.9 in 1958 to 21.78.

All other parties lost ground—a development dramatically spotlighted in the crushing defeat of ex-Premier Paul Reynaud by a colorless Gaullist in the north, and a sharp rebuff to a comeback attempt by ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Ex-Premiers iwn

Of the nation's prominent anti-Gaullist, anti-Communist leaders, only ex-Premier Pierre Pflimlin in Alsace, ex-Premier Rene Plevin, in Brittany, and Maurice Faure in the south managed to land assembly berths in the first round of voting.

Socialist leader Guy Mollet trailed a Gaullist candidate and was forced into a hazardous runoff.

The candidates needed a majority to win on the first round. Only a plurality is required in the runoff. The interval is traditionally a time for deals and political alliances. Mollet was urging the other old parties to combine with

Supreme Court Will Rule on 'Agency Shop'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to rule on the question of whether the agency shop is legal under the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Under the agency shop, workers—union and nonunion must pay regular initiation fees and dues to a union.

The court announced it will review two cases presenting the issue.

One involves General Motors Corp. plants in Indiana, and a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati setting aside an order by the National Labor Relations Board that GM bargain with the United Auto Workers on an agency shop.

The other is an appeal by the Retail Clerks International Association from a Florida Supreme Court ruling that the agency shop is illegal in that state.

Complete official returns from Metropolitan France, including Corsica, gave 18,931,733 votes cast.

The vote totals for the major parties and their percentages (1958 percentages in parentheses) were:

UNR—46 seats, 5,847,493 votes, 31.9 per cent (17.5); Communists—9 seats, 3,992,431, 21.78 (18.9); Independent - Republicans and Peasants (conservatives) — 18 seats, 2,458,983, 13.42 (19.9); Socialists — 1 seat, 2,319,662, 12.65 (15.5); Popular Republicans (MRP)—14 seats, 1,635,452, 8.92 (11.8); Radical Socialists, 8 seats, 1,384,998, 7.56 (11.5).

First returns on the 16 seats at stake in overseas departments gave the UNR 4 seats, the MRP 3 and the Radical Socialists 1.

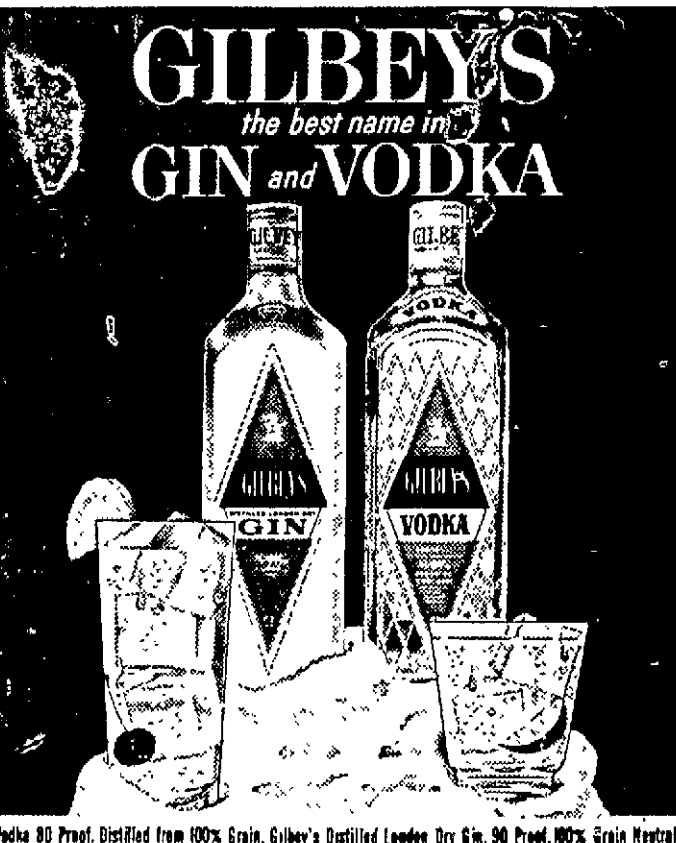

Gaullist strength in the last assembly was 176.

Harvest Festival Ancient Custom

As the autumnal equinox passes and the fruits of the earth ripen abundantly, families pause as they have for centuries to give thanks for their harvest.

In ancient Roman days, the people dedicated their festival to Ceres, Goddess of the Harvest. They called their holiday Cerelia, from which came our modern word "cereal."

The Hebraic Festival of Succoth reaches back to Biblical days when farmers brought their first crops to the temple in Jerusalem. The succoth, a wooden hut used as a temporary shelter while the Hebrews wandered as they sought their promised land, was heaped inside with harvest fruits and vegetables. This week-long festival ends with a period of rejoicing and the reading of the ancient law. A blessing is given over the succoth, the rabbi turning in all directions to indicate that God is everywhere.

In China on the fifteenth day of the Eighth Moon — it's Aug. 15 for us — the rule of T'ai Yang or the Sun begins to wane. The nights begin to lengthen and the sky grows luminous because T'ai Ying, the Moon and Queen of Heaven, is celebrating her birthday and blessing the harvest. At midnight, when the Moon Queen is at her brightest and perfectly round, families gather in the soft, incense-scented moonlight to share a festive supper.

When the English colonists came to the New World, they brought with them the very old Saxon tradition of the Harvest Home. This festival of Thanksgiving is still celebrated, although on different days, in the United States and Canada.

Baked Squash Such as these Acorns can be speeded up by the use of moist heat, cutting the usual cooking time in half. Cut squash in halves, then set in large pan about four inches deep. Pour about one-inch depth of boiling water around squash. Cover each squash half with metal foil, then cover whole pan tightly and steam the vegetable until tender.

A Popular Dish in most households is stuffed Green Peppers. Usually it's prepared with ground beef, but this one is different. The dish is Italian, a specialty of the Naples area. The green peppers are stuffed with a savory, garlic-touched tomato dressing. Then they are baked in a casserole and surrounded by stewed tomatoes and juice. A thickened sauce is poured over each baked pepper just before serving.

Colorful Autumn Vegetables Give Holiday Touch to Traditional Thanksgiving Tables

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

The autumn-hued harvest bounties that we can now gather-in for our Thanksgiving holiday are as colorful as an artist's palette. A trip through any Fox Cities area store will prove this with produce counters piled high with bright vegetables.

There are golden, deep green and creamy yellow squash . . . beautiful burgundy eggplants . . . snow white cauliflower . . . spikes of yellow-tipped orange carrots . . . holiday red and green peppers. . . light green cabbages . . . bright green Brussels sprouts. . . onions white and yellow. . . parsley, turnips and parsnips.

They make a brilliant array and a wonderful selection for Thanksgiving. Since the holiday is centered on the harvest season and vegetables are such a large part of the harvest, we have collected these recipes with an eye to adding a special flavor and festive color to the Thanksgiving Day table.

Turkey, chicken, wild game or other meat may be the star of that dinner, but these recipes also will bring some of the "fix-ins" into the limelight they deserve, too.

Stuffed Green Peppers Neapolitan
6 green peppers, medium sized
2 No. 2 cans tomatoes
1 quart soft bread cubes, 1/2-inch
2 tablespoons chopped black olives
4 capers, halved
1/2 cup finely grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dry minced garlic
1/2 teaspoon ground oregano
6 half-inch cubes Mozzarella cheese
1 tablespoon olive oil
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt

Slice tops from peppers, remove seeds. Drain (reserving liquid) and cut up tomatoes in one of the cans; combine with bread cubes, olives, capers, Parmesan cheese, parsley, salt, pepper, garlic and oregano.

Stuff each green pepper with two-thirds cup of tomato stuffing. Top each stuffed pepper with cube of Mozzarella cheese. Place stuffed peppers in casserole; drizzle one-half teaspoon olive oil over top of each pepper. Surround peppers with remaining tomatoes and reserved juice. Cover and bake in 375-degree oven for 40 minutes.

Melt butter; add flour and salt. Add tomatoes and juice in which peppers were cooked. Cook over medium heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Serve tomato sauce over each stuffed pepper.

Baked Acorn Squash
3 acorn squash
6 teaspoons brown sugar
Salt to taste
Ground black pepper to taste
3 strips bacon
Wash squash and cut each into halves. Scoop out seeds and stringy part. Sprinkle meat of each squash half with one teaspoon brown sugar, salt and pepper. Cut bacon strips into halves. Dice each piece; cook slowly until about half done. Spoon bacon fat and bacon into squash cavities. Place prepared squash in a large baking pan. Cover with foil and bake in preheated, 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Remove foil covers and bake 30 minutes longer or until bacon is crisp and squash is tender.

English Harvest Pie
20 ounces frozen Brussels sprouts (or fresh)
1/3 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon rosemary
2 cups vegetable stock or bouillon
2 cloves garlic, crushed
2 medium onions, sliced
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 1/2 cups diced cooked potatoes
1 1/2 cups cooked carrots
English Herbed Pastry Shell
Cook Brussels sprouts in minimum of water just until crisp tender. Drain if necessary. Meanwhile, blend flour, paprika and rosemary together. Gradually stir vegetable stock and garlic into dry mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add onions, mushrooms, potatoes and carrots. Cook five minutes or until onions are tender, stirring occasionally. Stir in cooked sprouts. Turn into baked pastry shell. Recipe makes one 10-inch pie.

English Herbed Pastry Shell
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon summer savory
1/3 cup ice water
1/2 cup salad oil
Sift flour and salt together. Add celery seed and savory; blend. Combine ice water and oil; add to flour mixture. Stir with fork until mixture leaves sides of bowl. Roll out between sheets of waxed paper to form a 14-inch circle. Line 10-inch pie plate with unbaked pastry. Trim and flute edges. Prick pastry with fork. Chill well. Bake in a 450-degree oven for 20 minutes. Cool before filling with Harvest Pie vegetables.

Sauce Italiano
8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon brown sugar
1/3 cup diced Mozzarella cheese
This is an excellent sauce over Brussels sprouts. The sauce may be made while sprouts are cooking. Heat tomato sauce and brown sugar together. Turn drained, cooked sprouts (or other preferred vegetable) in serving bowl. Add cheese to hot tomato sauce; stir through once then pour over vegetables. Recipe makes four servings.

Crisp, Bright Green Brussels Sprouts are used in this old English vegetable and potato pie. Open-faced to display its tempting colors, it's served in an herbed pastry shell. With roast or holiday fowl, a Thanksgiving dinner is just about complete.

Triad Tomato Sauce
8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
1/2 cup tomato sauce and brown sugar together over medium heat until bubbly around the edges. Remove from heat; stir in parsley. Pour over vegetable or into pre-heated sauce container for serving at the table.

A variation of the above sauce is to omit the parsley and substitute one-half teaspoon dill and one-fourth teaspoon celery seed. Also the sauce may be made with one teaspoon of sweet basil instead of the parsley. Recipe makes one cup of sauce.

Dilly Tomato Sauce With Cauliflower
1 cup cauliflower
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon dill
Wash cauliflower thoroughly; remove hard core. Steam until tender in water seasoned with salt and lemon juice. While cauliflower is cooking, heat tomato sauce and brown sugar together. Pour hot sauce over cooked head of cauliflower. Sprinkle on dill. Recipe makes four to six servings.

Battle of Appleton 1963 Budget Will Reach Climax Wednesday

Taxpayers' Association Will Recommend Cut of $90,000 From Expenditures

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The "battle of the budget" will reach a climax Wednesday night when the Appleton Taxpayers' Association recommends that the common council cut $90,000 from the proposed 1963 budget, but at the same time make allowance for hiring a municipal finance director.

The total city budget as it now stands calls for spending $8,892,533, of which $5,395,293 would come from the property tax levy. There is a strong possibility that the tentative levy will have to be increased because the estimated state income tax refund for Appleton fell short by more than $100,000.

Levies Added

The budget for city purposes comprises all municipal expenditures for the coming year, including those of the board of education and other municipal boards and agencies. To be added to arrive at an overall tax rate for Appleton will be the levies of Outagamie County, the state, and county school purposes, expected to total about $888,550.

Need Growing

Need for a municipal finance director has been growing in recent years, many aldermen feel. Under the present setup, City Clerk Elden Broehm also serves as the city controller and is performing the duties normally required of two department heads. Broehm has indicated the workload has become too much and advocates physical separation of the clerk's office from that of the comptroller. The taxpayers' group agrees with him.

"Part of the duties of a finance director would be to prepare long range forecasts relating the proposed increases in personnel, capital spending, and so on, to the dollar impact on the community," the association says.

It adds that the finance director's duties would also include the pre-screening of budgets for the budget committee and a continuing independent analysis of the expenditures made by each municipal department.

Outagamie Tax Share Up $35,000

The county this morning received a check for $73,236, which brings the year's total to $410,611. The 1962 budget estimated the amount to be $375,000. Last year's total was $391,302.

The $35,000 figure is not exact because the county had to pay amounts to other counties for erroneous income tax allocations received from the state.

Other Recommendations

Among the other recommendations by the association are that:

Because of the vacancy factor involved annually, the salary budgets be reduced by $3,200 in the police department and $9,000 in the fire department.

The $2,000 requested by the health department for a laboratory be deleted because such facilities are already available in the city.

Appleton Candy Store Windows Broken By Rock Throwers

Iggie's Sweet Shop, 1701 E. Newberry St., was a target for rock tossers who have broken six windows in the building since Friday.

One of the front windows, measuring 4 by 5 feet, was broken by a rock sometime Sunday night, police said. Other rocks have pelted the store Thursday and Friday.

The store is owned by Ignatius Bouvassa, 68, who lives at the shop. He is currently awaiting trial on charges of immoral acts involving a 15-year-old girl. He was freed on $1,000 bond.

Combined Locks Fish Contest Winners Named

COMBINED LOCKS — Winners of the annual fishing contest sponsored by the Combined Locks Paper Company has received awards.

First place winners received fishing reels, second place winners received a rod and fishing lures were awarded third place winners.

Tops in the black bass division were John Vanden Broeck, Henry Wulterkins and Bill Jansen. Tops in walleye were Joseph Van Thiel, James Williams and Ervin Borree. Tops in perch were Glen Runroe, Roy E. Smith and John Rietveld. Leading in muskies were Daryl Sjak, Clarence Penning and Harry Dreger. Tops in northern pike were Marvin Hartman, Peggy Rutten and John Vanden Burgt. Contest directors were Charles Ehlike and Lloyd Taylor.

Heading the list of "specific recommendations" is for the common council to "definitely earmark in the 1963 budget an amount of roughly $7,000 to $10,000 to cover the salary for part of a year and the office establishment costs for a director of finance."

The funds, the association says, could come from the amount already set aside for contingencies without increasing the budget totals.

Put Out Mattress Fire

Firemen were called Sunday to extinguish a fire in an abandoned mattress tossed under the north side of the South Lawe Street bridge. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Youths Violate Game Statutes

Three Black Creek Men Guilty of Unlawful Hunting

Three Black Creek youths pleaded guilty in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, today to three game violations which they committed Nov. 11.

Appearing were Terry Rettler, 19, Jon F. Minleschmidt, and Wayne Stingle, both 17. They pleaded guilty to shining deer, possessing an untagged doe deer, and hunting out of season. Judge Gustave Keller withheld sentencing until after noon today.

Game wardens told the court the youths were charged with the violations after Minleschmidt's car was found to have large pools of blood and deer hair in the trunk. Upon questioning, the youth admitted he and three other youths, including Stingle and Rettler, had shined and shot the deer in the Town of Bovina at 1:15 a.m. Nov. 11.

A warrant against a fourth person involved in the violation is being prepared. The fourth person, according to wardens, is the person who actually shot the deer.

Among the other recommendations by the association are that:

Because of the vacancy factor involved annually, the salary budgets be reduced by $3,200 in the police department and $9,000 in the fire department.

Appleton May Not Place Ad In Magazine

The common council's finance committee has recommended against placing an advertisement in a statewide county police publication.

A few weeks ago the City of Appleton received a request from the Wisconsin County Police and Radio Operators Association to run an ad in its yearly safety publication, "The Wisconsin County Traffic Police."

The finance committee decided the city should not spend money for an advertisement in the annual publication.

However, it did say that because the association is scheduled to have its convention here in 1964, consideration would be given to buying an ad in the convention booklet.

Association officials were contacted by the committee and indicated the latter arrangement would be agreeable.

Terry Jo Duperrault Doesn't Have to Go To Miami to Testify

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Terry Jo Duperrault, 12-year-old survivor of the Bluebell sea tragedy, can testify in Green Bay, Wis., in connection with lawsuits stemming from the sinking and does not have to travel to Miami at this time, a federal judge ruled today.

Judge Emmett C. Choate said Harold S. Pegg of Hollywood, Fla., owner of the ill-fated vessel and defendant in a $400,000 suit, "will have to follow Terry Jo" to obtain the depositions.

The Kellogg - Citizens National Bank of Green Bay asked in a motion filed in behalf of Terry Jo Nov. 14 that she be permitted to make a deposition in Wisconsin, where she lives.

Pegg wanted the depositions in an action to limit his liability to $125. Judge Choate stayed further hearings here until Jan. 14.

Girl Rescued From Furnace Pipe Prison

A 13-month-old girl's curiosity about an open air register caused her to spend a terrifying 10 minutes in the sooty furnace pipes before she was rescued Sunday by Appleton firemen.

Kathleen Moody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Moody, 414 E. South River St., crawled into an open vent in her home and dropped about eight feet into a pipe near a furnace.

Firemen were called at 6:30 p.m. and had to disconnect the pipe from the furnace and let the girl out. Firemen said the girl was frightened and dirty but was unharmed. Her parents were advised to contact a doctor to examine her.

Firemen also advised that the vent be fastened to prevent further exploring.

Two Chilton Youths Hurt as Car Leaves Road, Jumps Embankment

Police Report 5 Other Auto Accidents Occur During Weekend in Calumet County Vicinity

CHILTON — Injuries to two Chilton youths and the death of a deer resulted from six automobile accidents investigated over the week-end by Chilton and Calumet County police.

Rodney Demler, 19, 515 Memorial Dr., Chilton, and Randolph Bishop, 21, route 1, Chilton, are being treated at Calumet Memorial Hospital here for injuries they suffered when thrown from a car driven by Demler after the vehicle left State 57 about a mile south of here at 1:20 a.m. Sunday.

City police found that the north-bound vehicle crossed the highway and went into the left ditch, through a fence and over an embankment.

Police found Demler lying partially conscious in the field, and Bishop tangled in the barbed wire fence.

Bishop was the most seriously injured, with back injuries and multiple cuts and bruises. Demler suffered a broken right leg and cuts.

Chairman Emphasizes Men Are Volunteers, None Seeking Permanent Membership Status

Two industrial leaders and a physician were appointed this morning to serve as a temporary board of trustees for the Outagamie County Hospital.

County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer named Dr. Frank Wright, 1911 N. Racine St.; Ronald W. Evans, 1504 W. Grant St., and Eric Wussow, 1532 W. Franklin St., all of Appleton, to serve until a permanent board is elected at the January county board meeting.

The resignations of Walter A. Blake, Dr. A. L. Koch and Fred R. Hill last Tuesday left the hospital without trustee direction.

"The members of the temporary board will make an intense study of all procedures and the operation of the hospital," Fulcer explained. "and will make recommendations when the board meets in January."

Fulcer emphasized that all three men are "volunteers" and are not seeking permanent board status.

UW to Accept Bowl Bid, Says Harrington

MADISON (AP)—If there was any doubt about the University of Wisconsin approving a Rose Bowl bid for its football team it was erased today.

"If chosen by the Big Ten as the conference representative, the team will go," University President Fred Harrington said.

The question of accepting a bid was raised in some quarters because the Wisconsin faculty has consistently instructed its conference representative to vote against the Rose Bowl agreement. But the university also has consistently aided by Big Ten decisions, even when it found itself in the minority on a vote.

Harrington said he had asked the school's athletic board and the university committee, the faculty's elected executive committee, about the policy to be followed now if Wisconsin should named to the bowl team.

Unanimous support for acceptance of the invitation was voted.

Harrington added he heartily concurred.

Roy P. Whitney Appointed to Education Post

175 Letters Received By Mayor Shows Interest in Vacancy

Roy P. Whitney, 49, dean of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, today was appointed to the Appleton Board of Education.

Whitney and his wife, Virginia, reside at 1709 S. Douglas St. They have two children, Donald 16, sophomore at Appleton Senior High School, and Patricia Ann, 18, a freshman at Carleton College.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell made the appointment to fill the vacancy created by the resignation last month of A. Neil McLeod, 820 E. Alton Place, an economist at the paper institute.

Ten Sought Post

"As far as I am concerned, I have appointed the man who can do the best job for the board of education and school system," Mitchell declared. The mayor admitted he had been the target of "considerable pressure."

"You can say this was the most interest shown in any appointment I have had to make," Mitchell commented.

Ten persons sought the post and in recent weeks the mayor

Man Ordered Held After Admitting Shoplifting Charge

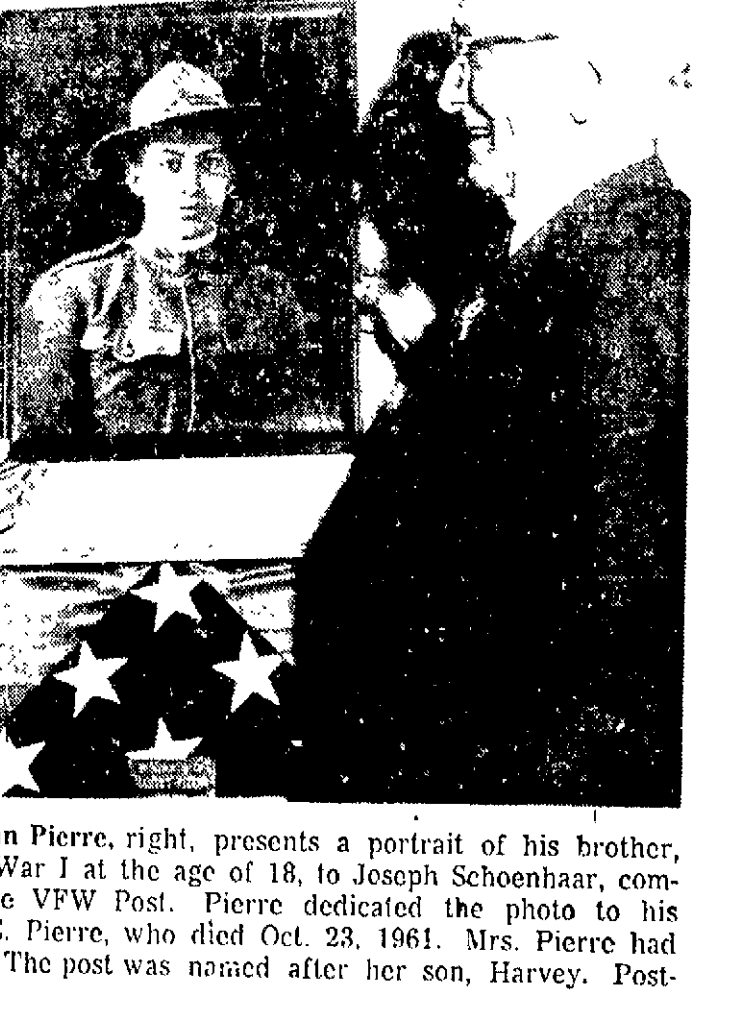

OSHKOSH — Arthur Rusch, 24, 2418 S. Madison St., Appleton, pleaded guilty this morning of shoplifting and Judge James V. Sitter ordered him held in the county jail without bond to await sentencing Wednesday.

Rusch admitted taking 2 1/2 pairs of the men's socks and a pair of women's snow boots from the Oshkosh Red Owl Store, 708 W. G. Gebhard, route 4, Chilton. It was hit on the left rear fender. Total value of the items was $5.22.

At 1:30 a.m. Friday the car was driven by Alex J. Lau, 28, route 2, Brillion, skidded into the ditch and overturned about two miles east of Potter on County Trunk JJ.

Lau told police he was traveling east and moved the vehicle's was hit on the left rear fender. Total value of the items was $5.22.

Judge Sitter Blasts State Tax Division on Enforcement

Says Big Gambling Should be Hit Before Raiding Benefits

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County Judge James V. Sitter this morning blasted the under-staffed police agencies beverage and cigarette tax division of the Wisconsin Department of Taxation in its enforcement of anti-gambling laws.

Beverage division agents charged an Oshkosh man with commercial gambling after a raid of a dance hall Nov. 11 which netted tip jars, several wheels of change and dice.

The event was a fund raising festival sponsored by the Club 13, a non-profit organization, to raise money for a fence around a city-owned ball park.

This morning, Judge Sitter fined Killian Spanbauer, 35, 826 W. 10th Ave., agent for the Club 13, $6.50 — 50 cents for each member of the club.

In passing sentence, Judge Sitter said this proceeding was initiated on a complaint filed by agents of the beverage and cigarette tax division of the Wisconsin Department of Taxation. Among other things this division has the duty of enforcing all state laws relating to intoxicants as well as all the gambling laws. Such duties have been granted to this state agency by reason of the fact that enforcement officers are — or overlook it. It is their duty to soon become — well known to prosecute these offenses wherever violators thereby making the gathering of evidence difficult.

"Every week this court processes a veritable parade of persons accused of drunkenness, many of whom are habitual offenders. This, despite state laws prohibiting the sale of intoxicants to persons already intoxicated and other laws forbidding sale to habitual drunkards. Plainly these violations do not occur in the presence of a known police officer. It's also known that the understaffed police agencies of this county do not have sufficient personnel to station men in each tavern to prevent these violations.

"The beverage tax division could do much in regard to this problem. However, insofar as this county is concerned, its record of performance has been and is miserable.

"In respect to gambling, we have been regaled with many press stories during the past campaign to the effect that our state is rife with organized crime and gambling. If there is any basis in fact for these stories, one might ask what the beverage tax agents are doing to combat this menace. As far as we can see they are skulking about raiding fireman picnics, veterans parties, on a conservation club events and similar non-profit affairs. Big deal! "None of the foregoing is in the interest of Taxation. Among other things this division has the duty of enforcing all state laws relating to intoxicants as well as all the gambling laws. Such duties have been granted to this state agency by reason of the fact that enforcement officers are — or overlook it. It is their duty to soon become — well known to prosecute these offenses wherever violators thereby making the gathering of evidence difficult.

NATO Allies Showing Split

De Gaulle Doesn't Want to Let Troops Under Its Command

Chicago Daily News Service

PARIS — French President Charles de Gaulle is willing to coordinate his forces with NATO but not to subordinate them.

That is the belated French reaction to U.S. Undersecretary of State George Ball's suggestion Friday that the United States would be amenable to the establishment of a European nuclear force—if it came under NATO and was co-ordinated with that group's other deterrents.

French disagreement with the American position is likely to be brought into the open when foreign and defense ministers of the 15 NATO countries meet in Paris Dec. 13 for their annual session. It is expected to center on three points:

1. De Gaulle wants to retain control of the nuclear force he is now building.

2. France, busily training for defense of the homeland the troops released by the Algerian ceasefire, balks at committing any of them to increase the French contribution to NATO's ground force.

3. Because French intelligence estimates say the Soviets, in the event of an attack on Western Europe, would use tactical nuclear weapons from the start, De Gaulle argues for the development of individual national nuclear retaliatory capabilities.

Indian Envoy Issues Warning On Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Destruction of India's way of life is Red China's prime objective in its attack on India, says Indian Ambassador B. K. Nehru.

He says he believes this "because the Indian way of life through freedom and democracy was achieving a degree of success which if it went on would have convinced, or helped, other people to the concept that this is the way to develop."

Nehru, in a television interview — Meet the Press, NBC — said Sunday:

"After all, this is a problem of the underdeveloped countries. China and India have adopted different systems of development. Ours has been a little more successful, I think. The best way to destroy it has been to force us to divert our resources—very limited resources—to defense rather than development."

Federal Aid Hurts Smaller Colleges, UW Study Reports

MADISON (AP)—Federal aid to education is hurting smaller schools, a University of Wisconsin researcher has determined.

Effects of U.S. assistance to colleges and universities have been summarized in "A Survey of Federal Programs in Higher Education." The survey was made for the U.S. Office of Education by J. Kenneth Little, a Wisconsin education professor.

The survey found federal aid has helped the sciences more than the humanities and larger institutions more than small. Citing federally-supported programs in large schools the survey said "the staffing problems of some universities and many undergraduate colleges that have relatively small resources is expected to become increasingly severe."

Your Money's Worth

Nation Must Have Economic Revival

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The growing belief that the U.S. economy will remain on a record high plateau in the months ahead and that at the worst, we're in a mild setback dangerously misses the key point. Any complacency which this talk encourages could be exceedingly harmful to the entire free world.

For the key point is that a plateau — even the highest in history — is simply not good enough for the U.S. economy with its constantly increasing number of workers, its large total of idle plant capacity, its vast burdens as leader of the West. A mild recession certainly would not be good enough, for even a slight business downturn in this fiercely competitive era would push many American businessmen to the wall and throw millions out of work.

What we need is not a continuation of 1962's sluggish growth. What we urgently need is a revival of a strongly expanding economy.

It's an urgent need because only a strongly expanding economy will supply the jobs to employ young workers entering the labor force each year and older workers whose jobs have been erased by automation, more efficient plant operations, etc.

Unemployment Down At latest report our unemployment rate was down to 5 per cent, but that's hardly anything to boast about after 21 months of business advance. What's more, the reason the rate went down last month was that about 200,000 women stopped looking for jobs, the jobless rate for adult men was virtually unchanged. Also in October there were no more jobs outside the farms than in May — meaning that we've not added any jobs in industry, finance, trade, etc., for five months. If this jobless rate holds, there will be 4,500,000 unemployed this winter.

It's an urgent need because only a strongly expanding economy will soak up our excess plant capacity and spur corporations to invest in expanding and modernizing their plants. This modernization is imperative if we are to be able to compete in the world markets, boost our sales of goods abroad and thereby help create prosperity at home.

The most recent McGraw-Hill survey indicates that businessmen will spend 3 per cent more on new plants and equipment in 1963 than in 1962 — on top of a rise of about 8 per cent this year. The continuing increase is encouraging, for it lessens the danger of a recession. But a rise of only 3 per cent will not spark a real economic upturn, nor will it put out plants into sufficiently modern condition to compete more successfully with the up-to-date factories of many foreign producers.

Not until businessmen see a climbing demand for their products will they sharply step up their spending on new plants and equipment, and they won't see that demand until our economy again gets moving ahead at a brisk pace.

Change Urgent

It's an urgent need because only a strongly expanding economy will give the United States the power to win the cold-war. We have taken on enormous burdens to defend the free world and aid new and underdeveloped lands. We can carry these burdens if we are economically prosperous and financially sound, but they will become increasingly intolerable if we are just ambling along.

We simply cannot settle for a plateau or a sluggishly growing economy in view of these three urgent needs.

Per Jacobsson, the highly respected economist who heads the International Monetary Fund and who has been warning the free world about the danger of deflation for months tells a marvelous apt tale about the late Marcus Wallenberg. The Swedish banker, says Jacobsson, once told him that it was often his role in life to be considered wrong in his forecasts, for when he saw threatening signs he would go around warning people of the threat and suggesting measures which he thought should be taken to avert the threat.

"If then the proper measures were taken and the danger was averted, Wallenberg would be told that he had been wrong, but nobody could be more pleased than he when such a thing happened."

Take steps now, Jacobsson is warning the United States, to speed up your growth — and he is particularly emphasizing deep, across-the-board cuts in taxes. A plateau is simply not good enough.

The increase, applying only to adult fares, raises the cost of a single ride from 18 to 20 cents and the cost of a token from 15 to 26 2/3 cents.

The commission will hold a hearing in 90 days to determine if the increase is satisfactory. The bus firm told the PSC it lost $12,614 so far this year.

Delinquency Topic of Menasha School Drama

MENASHA — "We're All Guilty," a play dealing with the problem of juvenile delinquency, is the vehicle chosen by the Menasha High School Jay Players to be presented 8 p.m., Tuesday in the high school auditorium.

The plot is drawn dramatically and absorbingly around the thinking and antics of one boy, Gary Durant, played by Pete Isakson. He comes from an underprivileged slum area, but is the son of well-to-do parents who could and did make life easy for him — perhaps too easy.

Action is spotlighted in a hearing before Judge Sylvia Frazier, played by Margo Dreyer, who does not believe that Gary is a bad boy; but in her Juvenile Court he is faced with an indictment for a brutal and callous crime which resulted in the injuring of one girl and the crippling of another for life.

With enlightenment and compassion Judge Frazier conducts the hearing which will determine

Gary's punishment. The lawyers are not permitted at this hearing and the principals are encouraged to speak out about whatever is on their minds. In scenes of mounting tensions, Judge Frazier probes beneath the indifference, the guilt, the frustrations until, finally, in a climax that is both surprising and reassuring, she is able to place the blame where most will agree it belongs.

3-Fox Cities Hunters Die of Heart Attacks

Neosho Man Only Gunshot Death Thus Far in '62 Season

Three Fox Cities area residents have died of heart attacks while deer hunting, and two others were injured by gunshot.

The death of Everett Grimm, 48, Stockbridge, Sunday near Hayward, brought the weekend toll of deaths by heart attack to eight. Elmer Minton, 48, rural Waupaca, and Raymond F. Gross, 63, Winneconne, died earlier.

One hunter is dead of gunshot wounds. The body of Howard Hermanson, 42, rural Neosho, was found Sunday morning a half mile from his farm. Art Fischer, Dodge County deputy coroner, said Hermanson was shot accidentally by his own gun when he apparently slipped on the edge of a small hill and slid down the incline.

Two other Fox Cities area hunters were wounded, not seriously, by gunfire.

Roland Huebner, 26, route 3, Waupaca, accidentally shot himself through the fleshy part of the heel of his right foot about 9 a. m. Sunday while target shooting in preparation for hunting.

The accident, according to Capt. Royal Myhill, county police, occurred near Hutton Cemetery, Town of Bloomfield, Waushara County. Huebner and several of his friends were target practicing with a .44 caliber magnum revolver. Huebner was held overnight for observation at Waupaca Memorial Hospital.

Chilton Victim

Paul Ziegelbauer, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Severin Ziegelbauer, route 2, Chilton, is being treated at Calumet Memorial Hospital, Rice Co., for a gunshot wound he received while hunting deer Saturday near Lakewood in Oconto County.

Ziegelbauer was transferred to Chilton Sunday afternoon from St. Mary Hospital, Rhinelander, where he was taken initially after the wound was inflicted to Ziegelbauer's right forearm by a .308 rifle bullet fired by Schwartz. It missed all bones but tore through the forearm muscle.

The mishap occurred when both hunters spotted a deer. The animal ran across a fire lane ahead of them and Schwartz fired first, authorities said. Ziegelbauer moved into better position for a shot and in doing so stepped into Schwartz's line of fire when he shot the second time.

Grimm was found about 12:30 p. m. by his brother Herman, Wautoma. The victim was waiting at a stand while others of his party were driving deer.

Deputy Sheriff

Grimm was born Sept. 18, 1914, in Wautoma. He came to Stockbridge about 11 years ago and operated a feed market. He was a Calumet County deputy sheriff, a volunteer fireman and a member of the Stockbridge Chamber of Commerce. Survivors include the widow, two sons and a daughter. Funeral arrangements are being made by the Schindler Funeral Home, Stockbridge.

Other heart attack victims were:

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Yes but not in the way you might think. Your financial condition may largely determine the kind of mental illness you may have, not the amount of illness. Studies in Chicago by researchers Faris and Dunham found that those with split personalities (schizophrenia) were more likely to come from the poorer areas while the manic-depressives were more likely to be white collar workers. Your money may largely determine, not how upset you are, but what form your emotional disturbances takes. You may want to do some reading on the subject. If so send for the booklet "When Mental Illness Strikes" It's yours for 25 cents and your name and address sent to "Let's Explore Your Mind," in care of the Post-Crescent.

'Ben Casey' Christensen Has Lead in Musical

Co-Stars With Ruth Ann Liebmann In St. Norbert's 'The Fantastiks'

BY JAMES VANDEN BOOM
Post-Crescent News Service

Ever since the doctor programs have gained popularity on the nation's television screens, St. Norbert College junior Barry Christensen has a new nickname, "Ben." The reason is his striking resemblance to TV's famous doctor, Ben Casey.

But Barry, alias Ben, now has a new name—"Matt." He plays one of the romantic leads along with Ruth Ann Liebmann in the forthcoming musical comedy, "The Fantastiks."

The production will be presented by St. Norbert College music department Nov. 27 through Dec. 2. The opening Tuesday night performance is for an invitation - only, black - tie audience; the remaining nightly performances are for the public.

Both Christensen and Miss Liebmann are from Green Bay. He is a graduate of West High School, she graduated from St. Joseph's Academy.

Although a newcomer to the St. Norbert College stage, Barry is not new to the stage in general. While serving in the Air Force, the tall music major had a choice role "The Boy Friend" among his many musical activities.

"I just like music—that's all," the leading man stated. But that isn't all. In addition to appearing in the new musical, Barry also is a member of the College chorus, and sings tenor with the widely-known St. Norbert College Chamber Sing-Miss Liebmann

ers. Only Woman in Cast

Miss Liebmann, who plays Louisa in the show, also sings in the College Chorus and Chamber Singers. She is the only female in the cast of eight.

A junior voice major, she has in several musical presentations. These include "The King and I," presented by St. Joseph Academy, "Ernest in Love," last fall's Memorial Union production at St. Norbert and more recently, "Little Mary Sunshine," staged this summer by Music Theater Green Bay on the college campus.

The 20-year-old coed also appeared in last year's major college musical, "Bells Are Ringing." She also toured with the Chamber Singers last spring.

How does it feel to be the only girl in a cast of eight? The young songstress is reserving most of her opinions for after the show, but she says with a smile, "Considering all things, the experience is proving to be quite different."

Musical Opportunity

Neither Christensen nor Miss Liebmann began their college careers at St. Norbert. As a freshman, Miss Liebmann attended Mount Mary College in Milwaukee. Christensen spent his first two collegiate years at the University of Wisconsin Extension Center in Green Bay. Both switched to St. Norbert College because of the musical opportunities offered there.

With practices scheduled late into almost every night of the week, neither has had much time for outside activities. Miss Liebmann, however, is a member of Theta Phi Alpha, national Catholic social sorority.

Both young leads are studying voice under Miss Lucille Meusel, lecturer in music at the college. The musical, based on "Les Romanesques" by Rostand, is described by Director Dudley Bird as an avant-garde, symbolistic theater. It's in its third year in an off-Broadway theater. The musical will be presented arena style in the Memorial Union at St. Norbert College.

Checks Sent Out

CLINTONVILLE — Christmas Savings Club checks have been sent out to all members from both the Clintonville National Bank and the Dairyman's State Bank. Most members received their checks in the mail Friday.

British Actor Clive Brook, right, a Hollywood star three decades ago, poses with actor Kirk Douglas as he began his first American film in 26 years at Universal Studio. British Race Woes Probed By Brinkley

BY TV SCOUT

9-9:30 (Channel 4-5) — David Brinkley's Journal examines a British problem which many Americans believe is solely our property — the race question. We're in Birmingham, which has the largest Negro population in England, and you'll learn that there are some striking similarities between English and American attitudes on this matter. (Color)

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11) — Chevy Chase leaves the open range for the closed chamber this week, as Clint Walker is named an interim state senator. His main interest in politics is to get a bill passed to prevent the needless slaughter of buffalo.

7:30-8 (Channel 2) — The tortured first half of The Lucy Show is worth sitting through for the climactic scene, a small comedy gem. The beginning, in which Lucy gets involved with Frank Aletter, playing a doctor who is an amateur violinist, sets the stage for the big scene. Aletter is giving a concert, but his right hand is hurt, so Lucy, operating from behind a curtain, handles his bow arm, while he does the fingering.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5) — Saints and Sinners starts with an interesting premise—based on a fragment of a true story—and goes steadily downhill. The idea is that the wreckage of a World War II bomber is found in the North African desert, and the plane's name—"Luscious Lois"—inspires the press to find out where Lois is today. Barbara Rush and Nick Adams are the home team reporters, and it is Miss Rush who finds

Skitch Henderson Dislikes Mass Music Through Loud Speakers

NEW YORK (AP)—"I would like to rip all the loud speakers out of banks, elevators, and airplanes," said Skitch Henderson, normally a mild-mannered gentleman. "Because they pipe in music which, nine times out of 10, is mediocre music, poorly reproduced."

"But more than that, these large masses of mechanical music change people's relationship to music. It ceases to be an aesthetic form and becomes functional—like a sidewalk."

Next month Henderson will observe his 1,500th appearance on television. It will come as musical director on NBC's "Tonight Show," the network on which he started more than 14 years ago.

Henderson's nightly chores are a bit of approved network moonlighting. His primary employment is network music director. This means he composes and arranges music for other shows, including documentaries and "specials." He often takes busman's holidays, too, directing orchestras and soon will reconstitute the NBC symphony for a special children's Christmas concert on "Discovery."

Lois, now a slightly alcoholic matron.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Stoney Burke has his first real mystery this week, and a big, meaty part for the show's supporting player (Warren Oates). Oates plays Ves Painter, Jack Lord's slightly illegal buddy. This week, he's accused of killing a man he met in a bar, and there is strong evidence that he actually did the dirty deed. Lord knows that Oates would do almost anything—but stop short of murder—so he springs to his defense.

9-9:30 (Channel 2) — The Loretta Young Show dusts off a plot which has served every family show since John's Other Cavewoman. And that's what happens when one of the children is a classroom cheat.

9-10 (Channel 11) — Emotions go into orbit of Ben Casey this week, when a brilliant young student is found to have a magnificent brain tumor. The problem for Casey is—should he tell the boy, who has three or four productive years and a lovely fiancée, that he is doomed? Robert Walker Jr. plays the youth on a high hysterical level. Elizabeth Ashley is fiery as the fiancée.

10:20-12 (Channel 4-5) — Tonight Show features film of Johnny Carson and the U.S. Air Force precision flying team. The guests are Patricia Morison, Jack Douglas and his wife Reiko. (Color)

Recovery of Mate Too Slow for Wife

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is 49 and last year began losing weight. It was found that he had diabetes. Almost at the same time he developed a cough and after X-rays and bronchoscopy we were told that he had bronchiectasis and "some" emphysema.

Molner

The diabetes was brought under control with pills but the bronchiectasis was "spattered in both lungs" and surgery was not possible.

He lost 55 pounds of which he has gained back 10 to 15. Our doctor says it would be good if he gained back 30, as he was 25 pounds overweight.

I am concerned at his lack of energy and pep. It has been seven months since the lung diagnosis. The specialist told him he could "live to be 90" if he takes care of himself, that he must "learn to live with the coughing," and at times the chest condition will seem to be better and sometimes worse. Are we being impatient about his weight? He breathes shorter than he used to, and any heavy lifting or pushing makes him cough, but he is able to work as usual.

Will his energy improve? Are we overly concerned about the bronchiectasis? How serious is it? Is it very common? We never heard of it before we were told he had it. — Mrs. R.B.

Too Impatient
Yes, you're too impatient in my opinion, but I think you've had excellent medical advice and care. The diabetes is controlled. You've been assured that the lung conditions aren't a threat to life if he takes care of himself, and you have been warned that they aren't curable — that's what "learning to live with a condition" means. Can't be cured but you can get along in spite of it.

Bronchiectasis (or pouch-like places where phlegm can puddle) is far from uncommon, but it isn't a dramatic ailment, so you like many others, don't remember hearing about it until it becomes a personal matter. I've written about it numerous times because so many people, like you, skim over things that don't at the moment concern them. This is human nature!

Your husband has been pretty sick. Now the diabetes is under control, but he has two lung conditions which will continue to hamper his breathing. It's up to him to keep his activity within the limits of his breathing capacity.

His gain in weight so far indicates that he is improving. Why be in a hurry to add more pounds? Weight alone won't in-

31 Arrested for Protesting New Curb on Rights

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Thirty-one persons, including four whites, were arrested in Durban Saturday night after another street demonstration against the government's practice of placing alleged subversives under house arrest for up to five years without trial.

A similar protest meeting had been dispersed earlier in the day in Capetown. Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster, who imposed the house arrests and has published the names of hundreds of persons, to brand them publicly as subversives, says these and other, perhaps sterner, measures are needed to save South Africa's white government from white leftists and African nationalists.

Towns Claim Columbus
At least 16 Italian towns regard Columbus as a native son. Spain, Portugal, France and Corsica also claim him.

crease his pep. If he will resign himself to less exertion than the degree that makes him puff, puff and cough (and I assume he has been smart enough to quit smoking!) he will find that his "pep" will increase.

Won't Improve
If he thinks he can push himself to the point at which he coughs, wheezes, or has to gasp for breath, he won't improve by it. On the contrary, he will make his condition worse.

His shortness of breath and his cough are nature's built-in signals telling him to remain within his physical limitations. Many of us have to "learn to live with" various problems. Don't forget the wisdom of the old saw about the way to a long life: Have some chronic condition that forces you to take care of yourself!

Dear Dr. Molner: My six-year-old daughter has a slightly bloody vaginal discharge. Our family physician is in semi-retirement. Should I consult a pediatrician?

— F.L.
Pediatrician, general practitioner or gynecologist, any would be a reasonable choice. The condition should be checked.

Mrs. A. P.: I've had my own trouble with buritis and can sympathize. Treatments include X-ray, cortisone or procaine injections, ultra-sound therapy, or use of high frequency sound beyond the range of hearing.

Nursing Home Made Both Parties Happy

BY THOMAS COLLINS

A retired parent is alone and ailing. There are five children. Should one of these children bring the parent in, or should the five of them pay to put her in a nursing home?

Here is the tortuous road by which one good young daughter-in-law came to the nursing home decision:

"My husband's mother was 74," she says, "and was being released from the hospital after breaking her hip. She wanted to come live with my husband and me and our three small children."

"We agreed to try it out. If it worked we would take the money from the sale of Mother's home and add a room and bath to our house for her — provided her other four children agreed to this . . ."

She wrote them (all were living in other states) and eventually all agreed and in the main expressed relief that the mother was not to be their responsibility.

"So we moved her in," the young daughter-in-law continues. "We were not willing to finance the addition to our house until we saw things would work out, so we put our three children in one room, with a wall-to-wall mattress, and gave Mother a private room."

"I encouraged her to read, do handwork, and gave her mending, but her eyes didn't hold out. I took her down for new glasses. They didn't help. Soon there were other ailments. We changed doctors for her. This helped a little, but not much."

"More and more Mother wanted to talk to me, always about the past and nearly always about how nice life used to be for her. I didn't have time to listen — not with all the things that must be done for an aging woman who couldn't get to the bathroom by herself, for three small children, for washing, ironing and meals, and for a husband . . ."

Soon the novelty of Grandma's being in the house had worn off, and bickering and trouble were beginning in the small room where the three children were.

"Whom should I care for first? The children? Mother? My husband? I was spreading myself so thin trying to do the extra mile for everybody that I drained myself physically and spiritually. A pall began to come over the house. There wasn't fun and laughter anymore . . ."

Children Afraid

But worst of all, she says, was the effect on the children. "Our seven-year-old begged not to be left alone with Grandma because he was afraid she would die. When she groaned, as she did occasionally, he would run out of the house or into the crowded children's room and cover his head so he couldn't hear her. There were different problems with the younger ones."

Actually, according to the wife, Mother was no happier with the situation than the rest of the family. "She was basically a good woman, and it hurt her to see me working from 6:30 in the morning until 11 at night."

So one day they had a talk. And it was agreed that an extra room on the house wouldn't solve things. A $40,000 house wouldn't. Even a $100,000 house might not be big enough. So perhaps Mother would be better off in a nursing home.

Financing

The daughter-in-law explains how it was handled financially: Mother had a lifetime $63 a month from the death of her husband. The sale of her house assured another $60 a month for a period of 10 years. Each child agreed to pay $10 a month, for $50 more. This totaled $173, and the room, board and care for Mother in the nursing home was $150 a month.

"Mother is much happier," the daughter-in-law says. "She gets all the attention and care she needs, and more. She has company around her all the time, and the nurses do special favors for her because she is friendly and makes few demands."

"We invite Mother to our house for dinner now and then. We visit her once or twice a week. She tells us she wouldn't mind spending the rest of her life in the home . . ."

Mayor Mitchell confirmed that he had received "more than 175" letters on the subject of a school board appointment, including the 28 that arrived in the mail this morning.

Whitney, a native of Milo, Maine, received a bachelor of science, master of science and doctorate of science, all in chemical engineering, from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was employed at MIT from 1935-1945, holding key positions.

During the period of 1942-1945, Whitney was on fulltime assignment by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as technical adviser to the U.S. Army Chemical Warfare Service Development laboratory.

From 1945-1947, Whitney was employed at the University of Maine. He joined the Institute of Paper Chemistry in 1947 and served as research associate and group leader in chemical engineering for a decade.

Whitney has been dean of the Institute since 1956 and vice president since 1958. He is a fellow of the American Institute of Chemists, and holds memberships in many professional organizations.

The school board appointee has authored about 30 scientific and technical papers, mostly related to chemical engineering research and development in the pulp and paper field.

Mitchell said that "some good men applied for the position" and after narrowing his list down to three, decided on his selection over the weekend.

Several of the applicants received letters of recommendation from friends and associates, according to the mayor's voluminous pile of mail.

McLeod had recommended Whitney as his successor, Mitchell disclosed. Whitney's term will run to 1965.

It was an unhappy thing to do to a pair of proud Little Chute grandparents who had gained three grandchildren in three weeks.

The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kons Sr., 512 Buchanan St., Little Chute. In rapid succession, their two sons each had sons and their daughter had a daughter.

The new grandchildren include a son to Mr. and Mrs. Norbert P. Kons, Dallas, Tex.; a son to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kons Jr., Lewiston, Maine, and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Hubert F. Garnier, Lewiston, Maine.

Budget Battle Will End Wednesday

additional personnel and higher salaries in the city and schools, and the elimination of nonrecurrent school revenues which will be received only in 1963, mean that the 1964 budget is already committed to an increase of close to $300,000 over that proposed for 1963.

The association said commitments for salaries and reduced school revenues alone will require another tax increase in 1964, or a 5.1 per cent increase in assessed valuation.

"We feel quite strongly that many of the departmental budgets, within the city general purpose area contain expenditures that could be reduced if an exerted effort were made," the association contends. The items in question included supplies, telephone, convention, car allowance, parttime help and overtime expenses.

The budget committee was commended for its efforts toward reducing expenditures for 1963, but it was also pointed out that the budget examiners lacked time to delve into areas where small amounts of reductions could be made account-by-account.

As a result, the association said, its initial recommendation was for the hiring of a finance director.

The association said it reviewed the board of education budget requests and "found them to be reasonable both in forecasts of enrollment and expenditures."

On Hospital Board
Wussow has served on the executive board of Kaukauna Community Hospital for the last four years.

Evans explained, "None of us have political axes to grind. We just intend to see what the situation is and make recommendations to the county board in January as to how we think the place should be run."

The situation which left the county hospital without trusteeship developed after the resignation of Norbert Loeke, hospital superintendent.

Loeke was arrested on charges of improper use of county employees' time and county materials on his Little Lake Butte des Morts cottage property. He pleaded guilty and Judge Keller ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Fulcer and some members of the county board's executive committee will help the temporary board of trustees when needed. Fulcer now is accepting applications for positions on the permanent board of trustees.

CHILTON — The deer kill in Calumet County during the opening week of the season ran well ahead last year with 104 bucks registered at three check stations early Sunday evening and more expected before registration ended for the day.

1st Concert of Season

Lawrence Symphony Distinguishes Itself

BY DON VORPAIL

Conductor Kenneth Byler and the Lawrence College Symphony Orchestra distinguished themselves with a brisk, picturesque concert last night in Memorial Chapel. A pleased crowd of nearly 500 heard this first program of the new season.

Byler turned out a colorful program of Schubert, Borodin, and Giannini that sated diverse musical appetites.

He carried his orchestra along with good pacing, clarity, and enthusiasm, showing them a pretty well defined musical road. At times the road grew a bit tedious, at times rocky, but in the main it was a well-paced, stylish thoroughfare.

Fine Orchestra
The college orchestra, which includes 23 Appleton and area citizen-musicians besides its 42 student players, showed that last year's artistic growth was no fluke. It was a strong, legitimate place in the major musical forces north of metropolitan Wisconsin and is worthy of very serious audience attention.

A little-known operatic overture by Schubert was played first. The "Fierabras" overture with its direct, unpretentious structure was a refreshing opening work, solid and tuneful. It pointed out the orchestra as a pretty well balanced ensemble, a fact further proved throughout the evening.

By instrumental sections they stacked up fairly evenly — a reasonably assured string section, capable, sometimes very good woodwinds, and a sound, often too-sound group of brasses. The overture gave each a showcase of rather elementary, but tasteful music. Each section accounted for itself well.

In a similar way, the Schubert requires proved elusive at the outset. Once the Lawrence musicians worked out of the sticky opening, they improved and painted a fairly colorful landscape for their Oriental caravan to cross.

Best of Evening
For some, the hit of the night was Vittorio Giannini's "Symphony No. 2," a bundle of vigorous, repetitious themes bound into three movements.

We liked this music — would have liked it more if Giannini had said it only about half as many times. We especially liked the orchestra's confident treatment of it.

Some of the night's best sustained melodies were found throughout the first and second movements which had some of the best drama. There was sensitivity to this playing and Byler was not hard-pressed to draw it forth, a tribute to his preparation of this orchestra.

The orchestra moved from a rhapsodic movement to perhaps its best effort of the night in the explosive, bold "Allegro" closing movement in fitting climax to a nicely charged total performance.

Parent's World

Child Fighting Back Shows Only Who Is Biggest Bully

Dear Eve Jones: How is a part of traditional, usually religion-connected ceremonies, from being bullied except by teaching him to hit back?

PSYCHIATRIST NEEDED
Dear Eve Jones: The parents MR. AND MRS. H. R. who write to you about problems. A child can be taught to tell that show they have no common anyone who's hurting him, "Leave me alone."

Then, if the bully goes on plaguing him, the child needs to know that he must turn to lawful authority — the teacher, the parents, or the police — for help.

Fighting back just shows who's the bigger bully. And threats just provoke an argument that leads to fighting.

A SYMBOL OF MATURITY?
Dear Eve Jones: It disturbs me that you would condone giving a child alcohol under any circumstances. Some things are for children, some for adults. Your advice in this case is poor and could be harmful. Kids should be given soft drinks, not alcohol.

BOXING IS ROUGH
MRS. R. E. R. Though few of us ever become mature people, we're all hunting for external proof that we've made it. And a drink can easily become the symbol of maturity for people who have been told that alcohol is only for adults.

Experts on alcoholism have found that it's often a major problem for people who were never permitted near the stuff as youngsters. Alcoholism is but a minor problem in families where alcoholic drinks are served to everyone — including children —

Parents don't have to be emotionally disturbed to be making mistakes with their children. Psychotherapy is appropriate, only for emotionally disturbed people, not for misinformed ones.

A child is helped when his parents stop hurting him and start helping him, whatever their motivation for doing this may be.

Boxing is a demanding form of physical activity. It's more than a young child can tolerate without feeling disturbing tensions.

At 5, a boy has just about all he can handle when he learns to skip and hop.

Governor-Elect Wants First-Hand Knowledge of State Money Needs

New System Replaces One Made by Persons Involved

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Gov. Elect John W. Reynolds has started his career as the chosen chief executive of the state by breaking a first precedent in state government operating procedure.

By resolving to "take the budget hearings to the field," the attorney general and new governor of Wisconsin who will take the oath in January has discarded a procedure that has stood for generations and that has called for financial deliberations in the quiet of a hearing room in an obscure corner of the state capitol surrounded by a few technical advisors, a handful of petitioning office holders, and a few newspapermen.

Reynolds will start the new method of information collecting bright and early Tuesday morning when he leads a party in a chartered bus or rented cars for a tour and on the ground observation of the principal state correction facilities starting at the new Fox Lake medium security prison and ending 48 hours later at the state reformatory near Green Bay.

Reynolds has not yet worked out the complete schedule of field trips but he indicated that they will probably be extensive. He also wants to view educational facilities, which would include the state universities and colleges, conservation services and the many others that are headquartered out in the state rather than in the offices at Madison, he told a reporter.

"See Things"

"I have watched these things over the years and observed that the hearings are largely a matter of filing figures, usually bigger figures than for the previous year or biennium and comparing them. I want to see these things for myself, and to talk with the local officials in these services," he commented.

The novelty of the procedure is likely to attract considerable attention. The minor officers and employees of the institutional services are rarely involved in budget deliberations. Testimony and argument has normally been confined to the department heads.

Thus Wilbur Schmidt, the director of the state department of public welfare and Sanger Powell, the chief of the division of corrections, would under normal circumstances detail over the space of a couple of hours what they had requested in the way of financing for the prisons for the next two years.

New System

In the new system of Reynolds the lesser officials including such men as Superintendent Michele Skaff of the reformatory and Warden John C. Burke of the state prison at Waupun as well as their subordinates are likely to be interrogated.

Reynolds explained that his purpose is to achieve a better understanding by the public the legislature and himself of the needs of the state services. There was speculation immediately about the possibility that man of the Republican National Committee is concerned about building up public knowledge of the spending pressures that will make his gubernatorial term a difficult one or of public sympathy for the likely necessity of holding down the budget figures for his term below the levels that the agencies want and are prepared to show will be imperative.

Made Choice

The choice of the welfare department for the first round of financial deliberation was possibly significant in that respect. Normally the larger agencies are considered late in the budget proceedings.

The welfare department's budget proposal is a dramatic example of the spending crisis that confronts the new governor — who has limited his financing opportunities by the terms of his own campaign for votes. The new budget total already filed by Schmidt for his various institutions and services is nearly $171 million, or an increase of about $30 million.

Comparable increases are on file for all of the major services and notably the state colleges and universities as well as for the minor programs.

The outlook is for a gap between requested funds and prospective revenues of about $150 million for the two years of the new governor's term.

They Let Her Go—

On 'Porpoise' at That

MARINELAND, Fla. (AP) — Miss Meg, a lady porpoise is back in the Atlantic—a marked female. A crew set her free Monday off Mainland south of St. Augustine. If you see her the curator of the state department of the public welfare and Sanger Powell like to know.

The bottlenosed lady has a bright yellow spaghetti-like tag in her dorsal fin visible when she cavorts on the surface.

Marine scientists are especially interested in the date, hour and place of her first sighting. This information will indicate her travel habits and speed.

Midwesterner Backed For GOP Senate Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky said Friday the new chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee should hail from west of the Mississippi River.

Morton counted himself out of consideration for the job for which he had been mentioned prominently. He is a former chairman of the Republican National Committee and a former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Debt Drive Hits $74,000

Fox Valley Lutheran Must Raise $400,000 In Next Three Years

Fox Valley Lutheran High School's debt retirement and expansion fund drive has netted at most $74,000 or 16 per cent of its four-year goal in its first year.

Members of the 18 Fox Valley Lutheran Federation congregations are aiming for $475,000 by November 1965.

The Rev. Erwin Ploetz, Dale chairman of the debt retirement and expansion committee, stated that $400,000 must be raised in three years to meet the goal.

He spoke at a Thanksgiving Service Sunday marking the conclusion of the first year of the drive.

The Rev. Edgar Hoeneck, chairman of the Board for World Missions of the Wisconsin Synod, also spoke at the service.

The Rev. Mr. Ploetz conducted the liturgy while FVL music department head Kurt Oswald was organist. The FVL concert choir sang the anthem "Lord Jesus Christ With Us Abide."

The Rev. Mr. Ploetz urged 400 participants in the service to renew their effort in the drive.

Raising $400,000 in three years is not impossible with the help of the Lord, he said.

A penny can make your drink taste better.

No, don't add it to the drink. Add it to the price. Spend a penny more per drink for your whiskey.

A whiskey that starts out with more good character to its flavor.

And stays that way. It's blended with choice grain neutral spirits in a special way—to keep that good character alive in your drinks.

Ice can't melt away its authority. Mix can't mix it away.

So, the surprise is not that Four Roses costs more. But that it costs so little more.

A better drink, that is.

U. N. Move for New Talks on Disarming Certain of Approval

Progress Report Requested Before Middle of Next April

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A resolution calling for new disarmament negotiations and a progress report by mid-April was expected to win overwhelming approval in the United Nations today.

Another resolution recommending that nuclear weapons be barred from Latin America faced an uncertain future because of Cuban demands that it apply to U.S. bases in the Caribbean.

The General Assembly's 110-nation main political committee scheduled morning and afternoon meetings in an effort to reach a vote today on the two proposals. The first resolution, sponsored by 31 countries, call on the 13-nation disarmament committee to resume its negotiations in Geneva "expeditiously and in a spirit of constructive compromise, until agreement has been reached" on general and complete disarmament with effective controls.

Group Meets Nov. 26
The proposal asks the disarmament committee to report to the assembly on its progress not later than the second week of April. The committee, which recessed Sept. 8 to allow for the U.N. debate, is scheduled to meet again Nov. 26.

The second resolution recommends that the countries of Latin America agree to dispose of any nuclear weapons or nuclear delivery vehicles which may be on their territory and not to manufacture, receive, store or test such devices. It calls for verification procedures.

Bolivia, Brazil, Chile and Ecuador, sponsoring the proposal, were expected to confer on their future course in view of the Cuban-U.S. disagreement. There was speculation that they might withhold the resolution from a vote for the time being.

Cuban Proposal
Cuban chief delegate Carlos M. Lechuga told the committee Friday the idea of making Latin America a denuclearized zone was "very acceptable to Cuba."

But he said Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone — both U.S. military strongholds — should be included and all big-power military bases in Latin America should be done away with, especially the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

Heart Disease Fatal to Chavez

New Mexico's GOP Governor Expected To Name Republican

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Dennis Chavez is dead of a heart attack at 74.

The veteran New Mexico Democrat died unexpectedly early Sunday in Georgetown University Hospital.

His successor will be named by Gov. Edwin L. Bechem, New Mexico's outgoing Republican chief executive. Mechem, who leaves office Jan. 1, is considered a prime prospect for the Senate term which runs until the general election in 1964.

If the post goes to Mechem or a fellow Republican, he will be the first GOP senator from New Mexico in a generation. The lineup of the new Senate had been 68 Democrats and 32 Republicans.

Mechem said at Albuquerque that the death of Chavez was a tragedy and that he would not discuss the possibility of a successor for some time.

Chavez entered the hospital on Nov. 7, the day after the general election. He had a virus infection and a high fever he is believed to have contracted while campaigning in New Mexico for Jack Campbell, who defeated Mechem in the governorship race.

Doctors said the illness, coming after 18 months of treatment for cancer of the neck, led to the heart attack. Chavez had planned to leave the hospital Sunday to recuperate at home.

Chavez was chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee and a member of the Appropriations Committee.

The body of Chavez will be flown today to Santa Fe, where it will lie in state in the New Mexico Senate chamber. It will be taken to Albuquerque Tuesday evening for services Wednesday morning at the Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic church.

Suspension of Cain's License Recommended

Referee Suggests 2-Year Revocation for Convicted Lawyer

MADISON — A state supreme court referee today recommended that the court revoke for two years the lawyer's license of Allan J. Cain of Appleton, now serving a one-year term in a federal prison for evasion of federal income taxes.

The recommendation came from retired county judge E. J. Morrison of Portage, who was named by the court to hear the case when the state board of bar commissioners asked for disciplinary action against Cain as a lawyer after he was convicted and sentenced in Milwaukee federal district court. The bar commissioners have moved for the acceptance of the referee's report. The court probably will consider the matter formally in January, a spokesman said today.

Morrison suggested that after the two-year suspension, Cain could have his rights as a lawyer restored.

Probably Paroled Soon
"It is my belief that in two years a complete reformation will be accomplished and that he can thereafter resume his services with honor to the profession," the referee said, adding that he has been informed that Cain's conduct in the Sandstone Penitentiary in

MEDFORD (AP)—A Medford man and a Wilkes girl were found dead by the girl's parents early today in a car parked on a town road near Highway 64 west of Medford.

Taylor County Deputy Coroner Lester Hirt said that Donald Dasso, 27, and 21-year-old Kathleen Zaleski had been dead about three hours when they were found by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zaleski about 5:30 a.m. The parents said they had started to search when their daughter failed to return from a date.

Retreating Indians Cut Off After Abandoning Posts, Defense Military Declares

BY HENRY S. BRADSHAW
NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru announced the fall to the Chinese Communists of Bomdila, 25 miles from the plains of Assam.

His announcement followed by only a matter of hours news from the Defense Ministry that Indian defense positions on the Se Pass had been overrun and that fighting had moved 32 air miles to the southeast, into the outskirts of Bomdila, in fighting on the western end of the long border front. The Indian army had planned to place its next defense line behind Se Pass at Bomdila, but the surprise Chinese sweep around the northeast end of the defenses brought the attackers Sunday night to Bomdila.

The spokesman said Bomdila is now threatened. Indian troops from Se Pass, caught between two Chinese forces, are now trying to fight their way back to a link with the Indians around Bomdila.

Announce Loss of Pass
Prime Minister Nehru had announced earlier the fall of the vital Himalayan Se Pass to a prong of a massive Red Chinese offensive probing toward the densely populated plains of Assam.

The Chinese outflanked Indian troops on 13,756-foot-high Se Pass, forcing them to withdraw, Nehru told Parliament.

The loss of the pass came as the Chinese Communists, attacking in waves, pressed their renewed offensive at both ends of the 1,500-mile frontier stretching from Burma to Kashmir.

At the eastern end of the battle line, the Chinese posed a separate threat to the Assam plains in an advance of 12 miles from the key defense post of Walong, which they captured Friday. Walong lies some 300 miles east of Se Pass.

Independence Periled
In Ladakh, at the northwest end of the disputed border, the Chinese have taken an outpost guarding a vital Indian airfield at Chushul and fighting is continuing in the area, Nehru said.

His announcement of the new reverses came after a speech Sunday night in which he said the Chinese offensive is threatening Indian independence. He said other countries are now beginning to realize that this is not a border dispute but "naked, crude and shameless aggression."

A Peking broadcast quoted Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai as saying U.S. arms aid to India will enlarge the conflict.

"to the detriment of the Chinese and Indian people and of the Afro-Asian peoples." About $5 million worth of badly needed infantry weapons have been flown to India by the United States.

New Defense Line
Peking radio claimed that after capturing Se Pass the Chinese pressed their advance to the

Oust Communists As Nation's Biggest Political Party

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle today emerged from the first round of the National Assembly elections with a new and resounding victory over France's old line political parties. The Gaullist Union for a New Republic (UNR), with a plank platform of unswerving loyalty to De Gaulle, displaced the Communists as France's strongest political party.

The UNR won 50 of the 104 seats decided Sunday and led in 134 of the 369 districts of metropolitan France where runoffs will be held next Sunday. The party's share of the popular vote nearly doubled, from 17.5 per cent in 1958 to 31.9 per cent.

Stay in Control
Although Interior Minister Roger Frey predicted the UNR would wind up with a majority in the 481-member assembly this appeared unlikely. Even if it won all the runoffs in the races in which its candidates led, it would still be about 60 short of a majority. But the Gaullists were expected to draw enough support from segments of the Popular Re-

Nelson Rents House In National Capital

Cubans May Have Radar Troubles

Possible Cause for Order On Grounding of Aircraft

WASHINGTON (AP) — A primary reason behind the Cuban government's grounding of domestic aviation may be radar difficulty in detecting and tracking U. S. reconnaissance planes.

The planes were grounded Sunday, following Premier Fidel Castro's warning late last week that surveillance craft flying over Cuba will be destroyed.

Low and high flying American reconnaissance planes, keeping tabs on former missile sites and other military developments, aroused Castro's ire.

Military radar for locating and tracing aircraft has been installed recently by the Russians for Cuba, but there appears to be some question about its efficiency in its present form.

Problem Grows
Military radar must be able to separate friendly or false targets from a true target. This requires considerable "sophistication" in the equipment and in the ability of crews to interpret radar signals.

The U.S. tactic of flying low level as well as high altitude reconnaissance missions has complicated Cuba's problem. Some planes fly in below the searching radar beams.

There were these other developments touching on the Cuban situation: Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, said the U.S. must encourage Cuban refugees to invade Cuba at some future date and drive communism out of the hemisphere.

In an article in the Communist party organ, Pravda, in Moscow, the Soviet Union defended its withdrawal of missiles from Cuba and accused Red China of siding with the imperialists.

A claim that withdrawal of Soviet missiles from Cuba has saved peace was described as "pure nonsense" by Peking People's Daily. The official Chinese organ charged that the "grave threat of U.S. aggression against Cuba persists" and that the Cuban crisis "is far from being over."

Consumer Goods Must Come Second, Khrushchev Says

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev told the Soviet people today his planners will continue to put primary emphasis on heavy industry and presumably armaments rather than consumer goods.

But he also said fresh efforts will be made to put more food and other consumer goods in the shops.

Addressing a special meeting of the Communist party Central Committee, he asserted that both segments of the economy—heavy industry (which supplies the armament industry) and consumer goods production — must be stepped up through more effective work by local Communist party officials.

The premier called for "radical measures" to shake up the party's organization and work patterns. He said modern times demand this.

"Old organizational forms," he declared, "are, to a degree, becoming a drag on the party's guidance of production."

5 Survivors Tell About Rescue After They Abandon Burning Ship

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five survivors of the Greek freighter Captain George unfolded a touching and ironical story today of how they risked great odds in abandoning the burning ship while fellow crewmen took a safer lifeboat but were lost in the stormy Atlantic Ocean.

Of the 25-man crew, seven were rescued. The bodies of three others have been recovered and 15 are still missing.

All From Greece
The five men, all from the Aegean area of Greece, arrived here late Sunday night aboard the Liberian-flag tanker, the Trinity Navigator. The Trinity picked them up from the Atlantic more than 200 miles northeast of Bermuda after they abandoned the Captain George in a storm Thursday.

The five men were Antonius Arapis, 47, Costas Veletzas, 20, Themis Patatzis, 36, George Anthis, 24, and Stelios Paschalides, 55.

Veletzas and Paschalides, speaking through an interpreter, explained that there was one lifeboat on the right side of the Captain George and another on the left side. The right side was the windward side facing into heavy gales.

When the master ordered the crew to abandon ship after the men stayed with it 18 hours trying to extinguish the fire and jettisoning the cargo of ammunition from the holds, the five were unable to get to the left-side lifeboat because of a heavy screen of sulphur fumes.

They decided to go over the windward side. The other crew members preferred to wait and go on the boat which was safer — on the leeward side.

As it turned out, the five were rescued after being in the water about an hour. Twenty crewmen piled into the other lifeboat, but only two of them were rescued.

The men were examined by a doctor who said none of them suffered any serious injuries. They left for New York where they will undergo further examination and interrogation.

The body of Chavez will be flown today to Santa Fe, where it will lie in state in the New Mexico Senate chamber. It will be taken to Albuquerque Tuesday evening for services Wednesday morning at the Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic church.

Five Greek Sailors, among seven rescued from the burning freighter, Captain George, in the stormy Atlantic ocean, thank their rescue skipper, Capt. Seawan Yu, of the Gulf oil tanker, Trinity Navigator, as they disembarked in Philadelphia early Monday. They were picked up from the raging seas while 18 other crewmen were lost. The rescued, from left, Valentas Costas, 20; Georgies Anthis, 24; Captain Seawan Yu; Arapis Antonios, 47; Themistoklis Patatzis, 36, and Stylianos Paschalidis, 54. (AP Wirephoto)

GOP Chiefs to Direct Future Campaigns

Decision Made After Kuehn and Wiley Lose

MADISON (AP)—Stung by the defeats of gubernatorial candidate Philip Kuehn and Sen. Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin's Republican Executive Committee has decided future GOP election campaigns for high office will be directed as well as financed by state party headquarters.

The committee spent most of a long, closed session Friday blaming the defeats of Kuehn and Wiley on their failure to correlate their campaigns with GOP headquarters.

"State headquarters will direct campaigns — period," said state chairman Claude Jasper.

"It is not only the error of the Kuehn campaign, but of past campaigning," he added. "The Executive Committee has let things grow out of hand to the point where it had no power of persuasion."

Tax View Noted
Republican National committee-man Robert L. Pierce of Menomonee gave his view on why Republicans lost their bid to capture the governorship from Democratic nominee John Reynolds.

"I think Phil Kuehn emphasized taxes, and he was honest and in his own words 'forthright' in talking about taxes," Pierce said. "But that wasn't the only issue and in the last week of the campaign Reynolds took the play away and there was no response, no refutation."

Jasper agreed with Pierce on why voters elected Reynolds over Kuehn by a narrow margin.

"I thought we had firmly planted the tax monkey on the backs of the Democrats," Jasper said. "But that changed about Oct. 1, and Republicans became taxers in the eyes of the voters because of Reynolds' anti-sales tax tactics."

Had No Adversary
"Kuehn wanted to run on fiscal affairs. He wanted to lay this thing right smack in the laps of voters. But he did not have an adversary who wanted to do that, and, despite headquarters prompting, Kuehn would not alter his campaign."

The Executive Committee marked for further action a request by the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs that Republicans abandon their procedure of endorsing candidates. Such a change would need the support of at least 10 counties at the GOP convention next spring.

3 of GOP Seek Speakers Chair

Bids Launched Friday for Post In '63 Assembly

MADISON (AP)—Three Republicans—Robert Haase of Marinette, Willis Hutnik of Tony and Everett Bidwell of Portage—launched bids Friday to become Assembly Speaker in the 1963 Legislature.

They announced their candidacy after Speaker David Blanchard, R-Edgerton, indicated he would not seek the powerful office again because of ill health.

Haase, 39, will be serving his fourth term in the Assembly. He was Republican floor leader in the last session.

Hutnik, 47, is a veteran of six terms and was Speaker pro tem during the 1961 session. Bidwell, 63, first was elected to the Assembly in 1952 and was co-chairman of the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee in the last session.

Haase said, "We face a difficult session and we need a Speaker who can help formulate a legislative plan, and with a narrow 53-47 margin, pass that plan."

Hutnik said in a letter that he believes "my record and experience qualify me for the Speaker's chair next year."

Bidwell noted his 10 years in the Assembly and said "I feel I know the workings of our Legislature well enough to serve as Speaker."

WAUPACA — The Waupaca County Fair Association was commended by Supv. Fred Hoffman, Marion, following the presentation of the annual report to the county board.

Hoffman told the board the fair association staged a very good fair this year and the fair has done much good for the people taking part.

The board also noted the decrease in the educational department due to the change in the county schools. It was noted in 1927 there were 138 schools under the county superintendent's jurisdiction and now there are 11.

It mentioned some counties are sponsoring scientific exhibits and displays for the larger schools. This type of exhibit is staged in the spring and the board said it was considering it for a future revision.

Budget Hearing Set Friday at Manawa

Tax Rate for City Will Rise $1.06 Per $1,000 Providing $61,178 Request Is Okayed

MANAWA — The annual budget hearing on the proposed 1963 city budget of $61,178 is scheduled at 8 p.m. Friday in city hall.

The new budget proposes a tax levy of $22.185, compared to the $18,682 levy needed for the 1962 budget, an increase of $3,503.

If the budget is adopted without changes, the tax rate for city purposes only will increase $1.06 per $1,000 assessed valuation. It will need a rate of $6.53 per $1,000 as compared to the 1962 rate of $5.47. The overall tax rate of $37.57 which was adopted to support 1962 expenditures, however, is expected to decrease because of lower school and county taxes.

Cut Street Budget
The 1963 budget is $4,261 more than the 1962 budget of $56,917. Revenues from sources other than taxation are estimated at $38,993 for 1963 as compared to $38,224 for 1962, an increase of $769.

Last year, the city council cut $8,739 out of the street department budget in an economy move to help reduce the city's tax rate. The budge proposed $23,739 for street work but the council cut it to $15,000. It also cut out a $1,500 expenditure for new street lights.

The estimated street department expenditures for 1962 total $21,689 or $6,689 more than was allocated in the city budget. Actual spending during the 1961 year totalled $82,588.

Departmental budgets proposed for 1963 are general government, $8,517, a decrease of $769; protection of persons and property, $17,264, an increase of $1,764; health and sanitation, $1,600, an increase of $610; highways, $27,477, an increase of $7,677; education and recreation, $2,700, an increase of $1,050; reserve for new street lights, $1,500, nothing was allocated last year; charity, $500, nothing was allocated last year, and unclassified, $2,388, an increase of $438.

The difference between the total increases and the general increase of $4,261 is the deletion of a $8,000 short term loan which was added to the 1962 budget to cover deficits in the 1961 fiscal spending.

Propose Milk Program To Help Family Farm

National Union Presents Plan to Dairymen Of Calumet County in Meeting at Brant

CHILTON — A milk program that will help preserve the family farm is the prime objective of the National Farm Union, Wisconsin Farm Union President, Gilbert Rohde, told a gathering of Calumet County farmer-dairymen.

Only dairymen in areas where milk prices are under the $4.13 parity would be affected, about 90 per cent of the nation.

The program, Rohde said, would eventually stabilize the market, and would cost the government only $602 million annually.

The family farm and monthly milk checks that go to it are vital to the state's economy and are especially vital to the economy of rural areas like Calumet County, said Rohde.

He urged farmers to take more time to study problems they face and warned them not to depend on marketing organizations to do their bargaining and policy setting.

GOP Chiefs to Direct Future Campaigns

Decision Made After Kuehn and Wiley Lose

MADISON (AP)—Stung by the defeats of gubernatorial candidate Philip Kuehn and Sen. Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin's Republican Executive Committee has decided future GOP election campaigns for high office will be directed as well as financed by state party headquarters.

The committee spent most of a long, closed session Friday blaming the defeats of Kuehn and Wiley on their failure to correlate their campaigns with GOP headquarters.

"State headquarters will direct campaigns — period," said state chairman Claude Jasper.

"It is not only the error of the Kuehn campaign, but of past campaigning," he added. "The Executive Committee has let things grow out of hand to the point where it had no power of persuasion."

Tax View Noted
Republican National committee man Robert L. Pierce of Menomonee gave his view on why Republicans lost their bid to capture the governorship from Democratic nominee John Reynolds.

"I think Phil Kuehn emphasized taxes, and he was honest and in his own words 'forthright' in talking about taxes," Pierce said. "But that wasn't the only issue, and in the last week of the campaign Reynolds took the play away and there was no response, no refutation."

Jasper agreed with Pierce on why voters elected Reynolds over Kuehn by a narrow margin.

"I thought we had firmly planted the tax monkey on the backs of the Democrats," Jasper said. "But that changed about Oct. 1 and Republicans became taxers, in the eyes of the voters because of Reynolds' anti-sales tax tactics."

Had No Adversary
"Kuehn wanted to run on fiscal affairs. He wanted to lay this thing right smack in the laps of voters. But he did not have an adversary who wanted to do that, and, despite headquarters prompting, Kuehn would not alter his campaign."

The Executive Committee marked for further action a request by the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs that Republicans abandon their procedure of endorsing candidates. Such a change would need the support of at least 10 counties at the GOP convention next spring.

Budget Hearing Set Friday at Manawa

But Chairman Says Figure Shouldn't be Considered His Pay

Members of the Outagamie County Board decided Friday morning to put an additional $7,500 into the 1963 budget to provide for full-time auditing services.

Board members didn't specify whether the $7,500 was to be considered a salary for the auditor. But they did say they wanted to hire a certified public accountant to fill the position by Jan. 1.

Carl Becher, of Becher, Okada and Co., who presently handles all auditing for the county, told board members earlier that they couldn't hire a CPA for the post for less than $18,000 to $20,000 a year.

Answering a question from Alvin Fulcer, board chairman, Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, who asked that the $7,500 be placed in the budget, said he presumed the money was to be considered the salary.

But Fulcer ruled the amount was not to be considered salary, unanimous in proclaiming the "We're just going to place that season below the record year for a 'bucks only' season. They also agreed that deer were running later. Appleton, moved that the position be created. Kloes' motion the 170-pound and seven and eight-point class turning up.

Conrad's Standard Station at Kiel had the top weekend registration with a total of 40 animals. Twenty-two were registered at the Schaub's Mobile Station, Chilton, along with 24 at Gib Pethan's Mobile Statn, Hilbert, for a total of 68 on opening day.

Kiel had 18 Sunday. The Chilton and Hilbert stations recorded nine each for weekend totals of 31 and 33, respectively.

The board also voted to include the services of Becher, Okada, Inc., for 12 more months.

In a separate action, supervisors passed a resolution inserting $17,161 into the budget for county aid bridge construction during 1963.

The amount replaced a $11,437 figure in the budget which had to be enlarged to provide for late requests.

Tax Rate for City Will Rise $1.06 Per $1,000 Providing $61,178 Request Is Okayed

MANAWA — The annual budget hearing on the proposed 1963 city budget of $61,178 is scheduled at 8 p.m. Friday in city hall.

The new budget proposes a tax levy of $22.185, compared to the $18.682 levy needed for the 1962 budget, an increase of $3.503.

If the budget is adopted without changes, the tax rate for city purposes only will increase $1.06 per $1,000 assessed valuation. It will need a rate of $6.53 per $1,000 as compared to the 1962 rate of $5.47. The overall tax rate of $37.37 which was adopted to support 1962 expenditures, however, is expected to decrease because of lower school and county taxes.

Cut Street Budget
The 1963 budget is $4,261 more than the 1962 budget of $56,917. Revenues from sources other than taxation are estimated at $38,993 for 1963 as compared to $38,224 for 1962, an increase of $769.

Last year, the city council cut $8,739 out of the street department budget in an economy move to help reduce the city's tax rate. The budge proposed $23,739 for street work but the council cut it to $15,000. It also cut out a $1,500 expenditure for new street lights.

The estimated street department expenditures for 1962 total $21,689 or $6,689 more than was allocated in the city budget. Actual spending during the 1961 year totalled $82,538.

Departmental budgets proposed for 1963 are general government, $8,517, a decrease of $769; protection of persons and property, $17,264, an increase of $1,764; health and sanitation, $1,600, an increase of $610; highways, $27,477, an increase of $7,677; education and recreation, $2,700, an increase of $1,050; reserve for new street lights, $1,500, nothing was allocated last year; charity, $500, nothing was allocated last year, and unclassified, $2,388, an increase of $438.

The difference between the total increases and the general increase of $4,261 is the deletion of a $8,000 short term loan which was added to the 1962 budget to cover deficits in the 1961 fiscal spending.

Calumet Reviews Skiing Facilities

Park Commission Hears Details of Summer Improvements to Slope

CHILTON —With an eye toward the fast approaching winter season, the Calumet County Park Commission was given a review of skiing facilities at County Park.

Ralph Whithead appeared before the commission at its November meeting. Whithead told the commissioners that a fourth of Brillion electors approved adoption of the ordinance in a referendum vote. Brillion joins New Holstein and Harrison as townships with zoning Six do not have zoning.

A $15,000 allocation for the coming year has been made for the park by the County Board, G. J. Hipke said.

He also stated that considerable improvement work was conducted on the slopes during the summer and fall listing many of the projects.

The Fox Valley Sky Club has $587 in its treasury and hopes to purchase two new tow ropes soon. The cost is $760.

Whithead also suggested placement of rental ski equipment at the site once the ski season begins. This would be a method of encouraging local interest in the sport. No action was taken.

In other action the commission again discussed the possibility of locating the Royal Historical Society of Calumet County museum at the park.

Society Founder
This was proposed by the historical society's founder, Dr. Royal Klotanda, at the annual County Board meeting. Klotanda favored the site because of the automatic exposure factor for the museum resulting from the park's thousands of visitors.

The County Board, however, sidetracked the proposal and will study it again in January.

John Stumpf reported that he attended a recent meeting of the historical society's board of directors and was informed that the society's board of directors had requested $75 to send a candidate to Manitowoc for librarian training. The council allowed the $75 request, but did not grant a request for $250 to purchase additional books.

Spokesmen for the Brillion Athletic Association requested an appropriation for dugouts at the ball park. Council members indicated that 1964 plans include such a project.

It was announced that spraying elm trees and blacktopping the street in front of Horn Park are under consideration. Lynn Williams, city clerk, announced a public hearing Dec. 17 concerning the official city map, zoning changes and subdivision regulations.

Propose Milk Program To Help Family Farm

National Union Presents Plan to Dairymen Of Calumet County in Meeting at Brant

CHILTON — A milk program that will help preserve the family farm is the prime objective of the National Farm Union, Wisconsin Farm Union President, Gilbert Rohde, told a gathering of Calumet County farmer-dairymen meeting at Brant Thursday night.

Rohde outlined the Farm Union dairy program which he will present to Orville Freeman, secretary of agriculture, at a meeting of Freeman's dairy committee next week. Rohde is a member of the committee.

The Farm Union, he explained, will support a voluntary program of milk marketing quotas attractive to the smaller dairy farmer. The quota would be based on a 1961-62 production and the farmer would receive price supports at 100 per cent of parity up to the quota. The dairyman could, if he desired, exceed his quota but would then lose support payments on the entire output.

Dairy products would not go into storage under the Farm Union program. They would be placed on the open market with supply and demand stabilizing prices.

As an example, Rohde said an average farmer with 40 head of dairy cattle might have marketed around 400,000 pounds of milk annually in 1961-62. This would be his voluntary quota. With all milk on the market, the prices would be driven down to about $2.50 to $2.60 a hundred pounds, but the farmer would receive the difference between the market price and 100 per cent parity, $4.15, for all the milk he markets up to his quota.

3 Fox Cities Hunters Die of Heart Attacks

Neosho Man Only Gunshot Death Thus Far in '62 Season

Three Fox Cities area residents have died of heart attacks while deer hunting, and two others were injured by gunshot.

The death of Everett Grimm, 48, Stockbridge, Sunday near Hayward, brought the weekend toll of deaths by heart attack to eight. Elmer Minton, 48, rural Waupaca, and Raymond F. Gross, 63, Winneconne, died earlier.

One hunter is dead of gunshot wounds. The body of Howard Hermanson, 42, rural Neosho, was found Sunday morning a half mile from his farm. Art Fischer, Dodge County deputy coroner, said Hermanson was shot accidentally by his own gun when he apparently slipped on the edge of a small hill and slid down the incline.

Two other Fox Cities area hunters were wounded, not seriously, by gunfire.

Roland Huebner, 26, route 3, Waupaca, accidentally shot himself through the fleshy part of the heel of his right foot about 9 a. m. Sunday while target shooting in preparation for hunting.

The accident, according to Capt. Royal Myhill, county police, occurred near Hutton Cemetery, Town of Bloomfield, Waushara County. Huebner and several of his friends were target practicing with a .44 caliber magnum revolver Huebner was held overnight for observation at Waupaca Memorial Hospital.

Chilton Victim
Paul Ziegelbauer, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Severin Ziegelbauer, route 2, Chilton, is being treated at Calumet Memorial Hospital, Chilton, for a gunshot wound he received while hunting deer Saturday near Lakewood in Oconto County.

Ziegelbauer was transferred to Chilton Sunday afternoon from St. Mary Hospital, Rhinelander, where he was taken initially after being shot in the right arm by a hunting companion, Fred Schwartz, 19, route 4, Chilton, about 3 p. m. Saturday.

The wound was inflicted to Ziegelbauer's right forearm by a 308 rifle bullet fired by Schwartz. It missed all bones but tore through the forearm muscle.

The mishap occurred when both hunters spotted a deer. The animal ran across a fire lane ahead of them and Schwartz fired first, authorities said. Ziegelbauer moved into better position for a shot and in doing so stepped into Schwartz's line of fire when he shot the second time.

Grimm was found about 12:30 p. m. by his brother Herman, Wautoma. The victim was waiting at a stand while others of his party were driving deer.

Deputy Sheriff
Grimm was born Sept. 18, 1914, in Wautoma. He came to Stockbridge about 11 years ago and operated a feed market. He was a Calumet County deputy sheriff, a volunteer fireman and a member of the Stockbridge Chamber of Commerce. Survivors include the widow, two sons and a daughter. Funeral arrangements are being made by the Schindler Funeral Home, Stockbridge.

Other heart attack victims were:
Adam Bednarek, 45, rural Princeton; David Zdroik, 23, Milwaukee; John J. Randa, 69, Milwaukee; William G. Maloney, 72, Stiles, James Bong, 65, North Lake, and Claude Shinkle, Milwaukee.

Battle of Appleton 1963 Budget Will Reach Climax Wednesday

Taxpayers' Association Will Recommend Cut of $90,000 From Expenditures

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The "battle of the budget" will reach a climax Wednesday night when the Appleton Taxpayers' Association recommends that the common council cut $90,000 from the proposed 1963 budget, but at the same time make allowance for hiring a municipal finance director.

The total city budget as it now stands calls for spending $882,533, of which $539,293 would come from the property tax levy. There is a strong possibility that the tentative levy will have to be increased because the estimated state income tax refund for Appleton fell short by more than $100,000.

Levies Added
(The budget for city purposes comprises all municipal expenditures for the coming year, including those of the board of education and other municipal boards and agencies. To be added to arrive at an overall tax rate for Appleton will be the levies of Outagamie County, the state, and to county school purposes, expected to total about $363,550.)

The overall tax rate for the City of Appleton in 1962 was $44.10 per $1,000 assessed valuation. Even if the council should go along with the association's suggested $90,000 budget cut, a sizeable tax rate increase for Appleton appears inevitable.

Copies of the association's analysis of the proposed 1963 budget, complete with recommendations, has been sent to the city's 20 aldermen. The report will be formally presented to the council at the public hearing by Richard V. Allen, the organization's vice president.

Heading the list of "specific recommendations" is for the common council to "definitely earmark in the 1963 budget an amount of roughly $7,000 to $10,000 to cover the salary for part of a year and the office establishment costs for a director of finance."

The funds, the association says, could come from the amount already set aside for contingencies without increasing the budget totals.

Need Growing
Need for a municipal finance director has been growing in recent years, many aldermen feel. Under the present setup, City Clerk Elden Broehm also serves as the city comptroller and is performing the duties normally required of two department heads. Broehm has indicated the workload has become too much and advocates physical separation of the clerk's office from that of the comptroller. The taxpayers' group agrees with him.

"Part of the duties of a finance director would be to prepare long range forecasts relating the proposed increases in personnel, capital spending, and so on, to the dollar impact on the community," the association says.

It adds that the finance director's duties would also include the pre-screening of budgets for the budget committee and a continuing independent analysis of the expenditures made by each municipal department.

"This person should also be able to aid all department heads in developing systems to accumulate information that will help promote economies such as the reduction of maintenance costs, overtime and parttime help," the report said.

"We feel very strongly that the city of Appleton is now of a size where this type of service is essential to aid in reducing future expenditures," it added.

Other Recommendations
Among the other recommendations by the association are that: Because of the vacancy factor involved annually, the salary budgets be reduced by $8,200 in the police department and $9,000 in the fire department.

The $2,000 requested by the health department for a laboratory be deleted because such facilities are already available in the city.

The salary and wages portion of the street-sanitation department budget be reduced by $22,000.

A total of $50,000 be deleted from the budget because the expenditure would be for sanitary sewer projects. The latter are to be included in a bond issue.

The association cited statistics to emphasize that "the combined cost of our own local government and schools is increasing at an alarming rate" and that serious consideration should be given to not only services desired but also the cost of those services.

The report said while the proposed 1963 budget totals appear disheartening, the budget outlook for 1964 could be considered "displeting fall short by more than $100,000."

"Based upon some rough calculations that we have made," the report continued, "the costs of additional personnel and higher salaries in the city and schools, and the elimination of nonrecurrent school revenues which will be received only in 1963, mean a 1964 budget is already committed to an increase of close to $300,000 over that proposed for 1962."

The association said commitments for salaries and reduced school revenues alone will require another tax increase in 1964, or a 5.1 per cent increase in assessed valuation.

"We feel quite strongly that many of the departmental budgets within the city general purpose area contain expenditures that could be reduced if an exerted effort were made," the association contends. The items in question included supplies, telephone, convention, car allowance, parttime help and overtime expenses.

The budget committee was commended for its efforts toward reducing expenditures for 1963, but it was also pointed out that the budget examiners lacked time to delve into areas where small amounts of reductions could be made account-by-account.

As a result, the association said, its initial recommendation was for the hiring of a finance director.

The association said it reviewed the board of education budget requests and "found them to be reasonable both in forecasts of enrollment and expenditures."

Charges Claim UW Lacks Proper 'Atmosphere'

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

A University of Wisconsin official defended the large institution against charges that it did not afford students the sympathetic atmosphere for intellectual growth found on the smaller campus.

Robert Taylor, assistant to the president at the University of Wisconsin, spoke at the Diamond Anniversary convention of the Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges meeting in Washington, D. C.

Using his own institution as an example, Taylor said that the University of Wisconsin, with more than 30,000 students, "is a much better institution than it was at 10,000, 3,000 or 300."

He explained that a large institution, which could afford to support a larger number of smaller classes than a small college, also has the ability to "do almost anything it undertakes," and undertakes more activities, cultural and educational, than the small college.

The Wisconsin delegation to the convention included President Fred H. Harrington and about 25 other staff members. C. M. Ferguson of the University's Agriculture Extension Center for Advanced Study also addressed the convention.
